Debate Nears Climax

Johnson Backers Strive To Counter Viet Critics

2,500 GIs Lauded For Viet Battle

U.S. Commander Asserts 'You Gave Foe Sound Defeat'

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, paid high tribute today to 2,500 American infantrymen while on a personal tour of the battle-scarred jungle north of Saigon where they hurled back a fierce predawn Viet Cong assault Thursday.

Astride the hood of a jeep, the general told his men: "You gave the enemy a sound defeat and I am proud of you. Your performance was in the highest spirit and professional conduct of U.S. fighting men. I salute you."

The discovery of 46 more bodies outside the camp's barbed-wire defenses raised the toll of enemy dead to at least 135. Many more were believed to have been dragged away by the Viet Cong. Fifteen Communists were taken prisoner.

While officers of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's First Brigade briefed Westmoreland on one of the heaviest attacks of the war experienced by American troops, action elsewhere in the past 24 hours tapered off. U.S., South Vietnamese and other Allied troops reported only sporadic contact with the enemy.

A third day of heavy rains curbed air raids against North Viet Nam. The thick overcast allowed only four air strikes against roads and bridges around the coastal city of Vinh, 165 miles south of Hanoi. The 7th Fleet's jets made no sorties against the North Thursday.

However, the Strategic Air Command's eight-engine B52s came in over the weather from Guam to pound Communist targets this afternoon in South Viet Nam's Thua Thien Province, 15 miles west of the old imperial capital of Hue. The raid accompanied a flareup of military action in the northern part of the country.

Vietnamee troops made contact with the Reds six miles northeast of Quang Tri City, capital of the northernmost province, but bad weather prevented U.S. Marine planes from providing the air support requested by the government force.

Slap Kennedy's Criticism Of War Policies

AFL-CIO Leaders Praise Johnson's Stand In Viet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders strongly lauded President Johnson's stand in Viet Nam today and slapped at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's criticism of U.S. war policies.

"I think he ought to read a little history," AFL-CIO President George Meany said of Kennedy's differences with the administration over Viet Nam policy points.

In a resolution today, the AFL-CIO Executive Council will not name Kennedy by name, but a spokesman for the labor federation said the New York Democrat was the target.

Kennedy has said he doesn't advocate admitting Communists to a compromise government to end the war but that the door shouldn't be shut if peace negotiators feel it necessary. He said that the United States should abide by any election outcome even if the Communists win control.

The AFL-CIO has been among the strongest supporters of Johnson's conduct of the war in Viet Nam, although the labor leaders have been at odds with the White House over domestic policies.

The Viet Nam resolution will bring some relief to the quarreling between the AFL-CIO and the White House over proposed minimum wage legislation, but that argument isn't settled by any means.

At a closed meeting on AFL-CIO political aims, Meany reportedly said: "We're not going to beg. The labor movement warrants a more important place in American life than that."

The spat boils down to whether the present $1.25 federal minimum wage should be raised to $1.40 this year, $1.60 next year and $1.75 in 1968, as organized labor demands.

Meany said he has word that Johnson will recommend only increases to $1.40 this year and no raise until 1968, when the $1.60 would go into effect.

The dispute between Meany and Johnson over the minimum wage is only a symptom of widespread feelings that the Democratic administration has not lived up to its campaign pledges to labor on many issues.

Meany reportedly is staking the AFL-CIO's prestige on the minimum wage fight and if he fails to win, many labor leaders say he will have trouble keeping union voters in the Democratic camp in this year's congressional elections.

'Confidence' Vote Sought In New Step

Morse Set To Give Argument Against 1964 Resolution

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharpest congressional critic of American policy in Viet Nam, Sen. Wayne Morse, asserted today that the $4.8-billion bill to provide more funds to fight the war would expand the conflict into Thailand.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is mustering its forces to counter an attack on President Johnson's Viet Nam war authority and to deliver a vote of confidence one supporter hopes will be a clear warning to Hanoi.

With Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey doing a little lobbying in the background, the Senate moved toward the climax of the debate. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., was set to give his argument today why Congress should rescind its 1964 resolution that gave President Johnson a blank check to carry on what Morse calls an illegal war.

Morse promised that after giving senators the weekend to think over his case he will ask Monday that his proposal be attached as a rider to the bill authorizing an additional $4.8 billion in funds for the war.

The vote on his amendment, Morse contends, will be a vote on President Johnson's policy.

But Sen. Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told newsmen that when Morse launches his move Monday he will introduce as a substitute for the Oregonian's his own amendment reaffirming the 1964 resolution.

"It might mean that the lives of American boys will be spared if we can get the message home to (North) Viet Nam and that we have put our hands to the plow and do not intend to turn back," the Georgia Democrat said.

Humphrey had a date today for another meeting with 200 Congress members to plug administration policy with his report on his nine-nation Asian trip.

Pennsylvania's Assembly Called In Special Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton has called the General Assembly into special session at noon Monday for action on eight separate topics.

Congressional reapportionment was not among them.

Topics set for the session were bituminous mine subsidence; a 600-man increase for state police; consumer credit protection; authorization for retired judges to be recalled into service temporarily; community college construction by the public school building authority; a school district reorganization moratorium for districts with appeals pending in court; authorization to enter an interstate mining compact; and permitting state and public school employes who retired prior to July 1, 1962, to be covered by the Social Security program.

"All of these subjects are of so pressing a nature that they should not wait until the next regular session in 1967," Scranton said Thursday.

He added:

"One item is conspicuous from the call by its absence. That is congressional reapportionment I have called for congressional reapportionment . . . for more than a year.

"The legislature failed to act on this matter all during the regular session of 1965; there is at present no realistic prospect that it would reapportion Congress during a special session."

The General Assembly's current session is restricted by the constitution to purely fiscal matters. Additional matters can be brought up only in a special session such as the governor called.

House majority leader Joshua Eilberg expressed disappointment that congressional reapportionment was not included in the call.

"The governor cares not a bit about the chaos which will result in the primary and general elections," the Philadelphia Democrat said. "Scranton hopes the problem will go to the courts and all 27 congressmen will be elected at large."

Scranton said he hoped legislative leaders from both parties would continue to work toward an agreement.

"If this is done, I will call a special session for congressional reapportionment without delay," he said.

Of those topics included in the call, Scranton listed bituminous mine subsidence and additional state police as the highest priority. The request for a 600-man increase in the 2,285-member force represents double what he sought, but did not receive, last year.

Scranton also said there were a number of other topics which

Nkrumah Mismanaged

Strife In Ghana Laid To 'Abuse'

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Ghana's new military leaders say they overthrew President Kwame Nkrumah because he had abused individual rights and liberties.

"He has been running the country as if it were his own personal property," Radio Ghana, controlled by the new regime, said Thursday.

Announcing the creation of a National Revolutionary Council, the radio said Nkrumah's "gross economic mismanagement" had forced Ghana to "the brink of national bankruptcy."

"What we need," the radio said, "is a radical revolution of our financial and economic policies. This will be done almost immediately."

The army seized power before dawn Thursday while Nkrumah was en route to Peking. He arrived there a few hours after the takeover was announced in a radio broadcast.

A combined paratroop-infantry attack apparently met resistance only from the presidential security guard.

After a two-hour lull, small-arms fighting resumed in the seven-acre complex where Nkrumah lived and had his offices but there were no reports of serious clashes elsewhere.

Casualty estimates ranged from 4 to 18 dead and 30 wounded.

Thousands of persons danced in the streets after the fighting ended. They tore down statues that Nkrumah had erected to himself and gathered near the waterfront Usher Fort prison after a radio report that political prisoners would be freed "in due course."

Ghana Radio did not name the members of the new council but said Lt. Gen. J. A. Ankrah, "who was deposed some time ago," had been promoted from major general and was named armed forces commander.

The broadcast announcing the coup identified Col. E. K. Kotoka as leader of the revolt.

British Chief Expected To Call Election

March 31 May Be Set For National Voting By Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson is expected to call a national election for March 31, politicians and news commentators said today.

Members of Parliament with access to the Labor government said they expected Wilson to announce the date over the weekend or early next week.

His Labor party's 314 seats in the House of Commons give him a three-vote majority against the two opposition parties — Conservatives (302 seats) and Liberals (9).

Wilson's government has proposed hard and controversial legislation that could face sudden defeat on a crucial vote. Such a defeat could force him to call a new election, whether or not he wanted one then.

Seeking a more comfortable majority, and noting his party's high rating in current opinion polls, Wilson may choose to call elections now before future troubles cut into his popularity, observers say.

They note that March 31 falls shortly before the annual budget is due to be presented to Parliament. The budget is expected to be harsh and may include higher taxes.

If Wilson chooses March 31 for elections, the opposition Conservatives are expected to charge that he picked the date because the political effect of an unpopular budget once it is announced. But Wilson has already made repeated warnings that Britain's economy faces tough sledding in the months ahead.

Under the British system the prime minister has the right to call elections at any time and name the date.

Traffic Commission To Convene March 4

Resuming meetings after a lapse of several years, the reactivated City Traffic Commission will convene Friday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, Mayor George E. Willshaw said today.

The commission is comprised of David Sakol, chairman, John Kelly, Ray Wilson, Dan Henderson and Don Burbick.

The commission has had an on-again off-again record for years. As presently constituted, it was revived briefly during the administration of former Mayor Merrill D. Hall. The mayor said he reactivated the commission in compliance with a suggestion made at Council's meeting Monday night.

Vital Law Enforcement Tool

Government Gets Behind Police Quiz Of Suspects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has added its influential voice to the mounting public debate over the rights of suspects being questioned by the police.

Its view, as expressed by the Justice Department to the Supreme Court: immediate questioning by police is a vital tool of law enforcement. Confessions so obtained should be admitted in court unless it is proved they have been unconstitutionally compelled.

While asking the high court to endorse the right of policemen to question their suspects, the department urged in a brief filed Thursday that the courts examine each case individually for possible violations of constitutional rights, rather than attempt to set forth a list of rules to apply to all cases.

It was the Justice Department's first formal expression of opinion in a legal battle that has seen law enforcement officials castigate the Supreme Court for so tying their hands with constitutional limitations that they are unable to accomplish their foremost mission: fighting crime.

The last major high court ruling was in the much publicized case of Danny Escobedo, whose Chicago murder conviction was overturned by the court because the police questioning him refused to allow him to see his lawyer, who was in the police station at the time.

At the heart of the debate are two provisions of the Constitution's Bill of Rights: the Fifth Amendment's dictum that a defendant may not "be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," and the Sixth Amendment's guarantee that an accused person shall have "in all criminal prosecutions" the right "to have the assistance of counsel for his defense."

The government's view came to light in one of five cases before the court — four state and one federal — involving the use in criminal trial of self-incriminating statements in response to police or FBI questioning.

Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall, who submitted the brief Thursday, will argue for the government when the court

Dr. Sheppard Hearing Will Start Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court will take up the Sam Sheppard case at the beginning of next week and Sheppard and his second wife probably will attend the hearing.

The high court completed its hearing of arguments for the week Thursday without getting to the Sheppard case. Sheppard and his wife, Ariane, had planned to be here for the hearing but he was suffering from a virus at his home in Rocky River, near Cleveland.

The court has agreed to hear Sheppard's claim that publicity made it impossible to impanel a fair and impartial jury for his 1954 trial in the bludgeon slaying of his first wife, Marilyn. He was convicted of second-degree murder.

Sheppard, a former osteopath, was freed by a federal judge in 1964. The state of Ohio seeks to return him to prison.

Continuance Granted In Track Tax Dispute

Hancock County Prosecutor Floyd Tarr Thursday was granted a continuance until Monday at 6 p.m. in the controversy over the 1966 tax assessment for Waterford Park race track.

Frank A. Pietranton of Weirton, an attorney, and Howard Graham of Chester, track comptroller, have challenged the $1,592,000 assessment set by County Assessor Frank Pirraglia of Weirton.

Pirraglia told the commissioners he believes the assessment is "equitable", and is in line with those of all other taxpayers in the county.

James Finley, president, Jack Evans and William Graham, court members, are expected to reach a decision Monday.

Court Grants 3 Time To Obtain Counsel

WEIRTON—Three Pittsburgh men charged with an attempted breaking and entering at the Broadview Inn here early Wednesday were granted time to obtain counsel during a hearing Thursday in Weirton City Court.

In addition, their original bond of $2,000 each was reduced to $1,000. The three — Nick J. Kontos, 19, Gus Kontos, 22, and Regis Donahue, 22 — are being held in the Hancock County jail at New Cumberland in lieu of payment of bond.

Chicago Stockholders In Battle

4 More Join Proxy Fight; Crucible '65 Report Good

Four Chicago men have advised the Securities and Exchange Commission that they will join seven other Crucible Steel Co. stockholders in a proxy contest against the present directors during the annual meeting April 27.

Making the announcement Thursday afternoon were Richard L. Byrnes, Jack F. Netchin, Dr. Edward L. Schrey and Sol Rosenthal, who hold a total of 4,550 shares of Crucible stock.

Meanwhile, Crucible Steel's 1965 annual report released Thursday shows sales reaching a record high, income reaching a nine-year high and annual increases in income for five straight years. The 1965 earnings were achieved despite the greatest depreciation charges in the company's history, the report stated. It also disclosed a new high in total assets and working capital and the highest cash flow in nine years.

Other highlights included reference to continuing large investments in research, improvement in its foreign operations, new production facilities and potential new markets for stainless steel.

The company spent $2.9 million for research and development in 1965, a sum typical of recent years, and is currently doubling the size of its research laboratories near Pittsburgh, the report said. Products recently introduced include a new series of free-machining stainless bars and a low cost, high performance tool steel. Said to be at or near commercial introduction are a high-temperature alloy for jet aircraft engines and two new die steels.

Joel Hunter, president, said in the report that it has been the practice in recent years "to invest now for future gains." A particular instance was noted in the company's investments in two foreign steel plants.

In Canada, the company suffered losses for three years in converting a purchased plant to produce its product line. In the four succeeding years the Canadian operation produced a profit, each year larger than the year before. In Italy, the company likewise has suffered losses for the three years since the facility was started. These

Tax Bill Goes Before Senate

Treasury's Chief To Urge Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's tax bill goes to the Senate today as Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler appears before the Finance Committee to urge approval of the House-passed measure.

Members of the committee made it clear they planned to question Fowler at length and to offer numerous amendments to the measure which would increase federal revenues $1.2 billion in the current fiscal year ending June 30 and $4.8 billion in the next fiscal year.

Senate Democratic leaders hoped both the Finance Committee and the full Senate would pass the bill in about the form that it cleared the House Wednesday by a vote of 246 to 146.

The measure would restore for two years cuts that went into effect Jan. 1 on phone and auto excise taxes, and would speed up collections of personal and corporate income taxes by revising withholding to approximate more closely tax liabilities during the year.

Slap Kennedy's Criticism Of War Policies

AFL-CIO Leaders Praise Johnson's Stand In Viet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders strongly lauded President Johnson's stand in Viet Nam today and slapped at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's criticism of U.S. war policies.

"I think he ought to read a little history," AFL-CIO President George Meany said of Kennedy's differences with the administration over Viet Nam policy points.

In a resolution today, the AFL-CIO Executive Council will not name Kennedy by name, but a spokesman for the labor federation said the New York Democrat was the target.

Kennedy has said he doesn't advocate admitting Communists to a compromise government to end the war but that the door shouldn't be shut if peace negotiators feel it necessary. He said that the United States should abide by any election outcome even if the Communists win control.

At a closed meeting on AFL-CIO political aims, Meany reportedly said: "We're not going to beg. The labor movement warrants a more important place in American life than that."

The spat boils down to whether the present $1.25 federal minimum wage should be raised to $1.40 this year, $1.60 next year and $1.75 in 1968, as organized labor demands.

Meany said he has word that Johnson will recommend only increases to $1.40 this year and no raise until 1968, when the $1.60 would go into effect.

The dispute between Meany and Johnson over the minimum wage is only a symptom of widespread feelings that the Democratic administration has not lived up to its campaign pledges to labor on many issues.

Meany reportedly is staking the AFL-CIO's prestige on the minimum wage fight and if he fails to win, many labor leaders say he will have trouble keeping union voters in the Democratic camp in this year's congressional elections.

Dr. Sheppard Hearing Will Start Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court will take up the Sam Sheppard case at the beginning of next week and Sheppard and his second wife probably will attend the hearing.

The high court completed its hearing of arguments for the week Thursday without getting to the Sheppard case. Sheppard and his wife, Ariane, had planned to be here for the hearing but he was suffering from a virus at his home in Rocky River, near Cleveland.

The court has agreed to hear Sheppard's claim that publicity made it impossible to impanel a fair and impartial jury for his 1954 trial in the bludgeon slaying of his first wife, Marilyn. He was convicted of second-degree murder.

Sheppard, a former osteopath, was freed by a federal judge in 1964. The state of Ohio seeks to return him to prison.

Continuance Granted In Track Tax Dispute

Hancock County Prosecutor Floyd Tarr Thursday was granted a continuance until Monday at 6 p.m. in the controversy over the 1966 tax assessment for Waterford Park race track.

Frank A. Pietranton of Weirton, an attorney, and Howard Graham of Chester, track comptroller, have challenged the $1,592,000 assessment set by County Assessor Frank Pirraglia of Weirton.

Pirraglia told the commissioners he believes the assessment is "equitable", and is in line with those of all other taxpayers in the county.

James Finley, president; Jack Evans and William Graham, court members, are expected to reach a decision Monday.

WEIRTON—Three Pittsburgh men charged with an attempted breaking and entering at the Broadview Inn here early Wednesday were granted time to obtain counsel during a hearing Thursday in Weirton City Court.

In addition, their original bond of $2,000 each was reduced to $1,000. The three — Nick J. Kontos, 19, Gus Kontos, 22, and Regis Donahue, 22 — are being held in the Hancock County jail at New Cumberland in lieu of payment of bond.

Chicago Stockholders In Battle

4 More Join Proxy Fight; Crucible '65 Report Good

Four Chicago men have advised the Securities and Exchange Commission that they will join seven other Crucible Steel Co. stockholders in a proxy contest against the present directors during the annual meeting April 27.

Making the announcement Thursday afternoon were Richard L. Byrnes, Jack F. Netchin, Dr. Edward L. Schrey and Sol Rosenthal, who hold a total of 4,550 shares of Crucible stock.

Meanwhile, Crucible Steel's 1965 annual report released Thursday shows sales reaching a record high, income reaching a nine-year high and annual increases in income for five straight years. The 1965 earnings were achieved despite the greatest depreciation charges in the company's history, the report stated. It also disclosed a new high in total assets and working capital and the highest cash flow in nine years.

Other highlights included reference to continuing large investments in research, improvement in its foreign operations, new production facilities and potential new markets for stainless steel.

The company spent $2.9 million for research and development in 1965, a sum typical of recent years, and is currently doubling the size of its research laboratories near Pittsburgh, the report said. Products recently introduced include a new series of free-machining stainless bars and a low cost, high performance tool steel. Said to be at or near commercial introduction are a high-temperature alloy for jet aircraft engines and two new die steels.

Joel Hunter, president, said in the report that it has been the practice in recent years "to invest now for future gains." A particular instance was noted in the company's investments in two foreign steel plants.

In Canada, the company suffered losses for three years in converting a purchased plant to produce its product line. In the four succeeding years the Canadian operation produced a profit, each year larger than the year before. In Italy, the company likewise has suffered losses for the three years since the facility was started. These

Treasury's Chief To Urge Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's tax bill goes to the Senate today as Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler appears before the Finance Committee to urge approval of the House-passed measure.

Members of the committee made it clear they planned to question Fowler at length and to offer numerous amendments to the measure which would increase federal revenues $1.2 billion in the current fiscal year ending June 30 and $4.8 billion in the next fiscal year.

Senate Democratic leaders hoped both the Finance Committee and the full Senate would pass the bill in about the form that it cleared the House Wednesday by a vote of 246 to 146.

The measure would restore for two years cuts that went into effect Jan. 1 on phone and auto excise taxes, and would speed up collections of personal and corporate income taxes by revising withholding to approximate more closely tax liabilities during the year.

The commissioners also approved a $300 slag grant for the Unity Township trustees.

losses have been lower each year, but still reduced profits by 34 cents per share in 1965.

The report discusses the company's efforts to gain new markets through aggressive promotion and lower selling prices for stainless made possible by lower production costs. Possible new stainless applications include automobile bumpers, patio and poolside furniture, and home heating and plumbing systems.

The sales record established in 1965 amounted to $313.5 million and income of $10.7 million, or $2.62 per common share compares with 1964 income of $9.8 million, or $2.41 per share, on sales of $283.3 million. Dividends paid last year to common and preferred shareholders totaled $5,174,000, more than in any year since 1957. Common stock dividends paid in 1965 were $1.20 per share.

Crucible Announces New Stainless Metal

PITTSBURGH — The Crucible Steel Co. today announced the introduction of an ultra - free-machining stainless steel, designated "416 F-Plus."

The drill machinability rating of this new product is about 10 per cent better than any other type 416 stainless commercially available, including 416 F.

Field evaluations bear out these findings, according to Josef H. Buerger, Crucible sales vice president.

"'416 F-Plus' was developed for the user who wants the ultimate in machinability, who is not interested in a product that can be hardened, and who is willing to accept some slight sacrifice in corrosion resistance," he said.

The increase in machinability primarily results from higher levels of manganese in "416 F-Plus." The combination of high sulfur and high manganeese results in an alloy distinctly and measurably superior in its machining characteristics.

2 Heavy Explosions Rip Alabama School

ELBA, Ala. (AP)—Two heavy explosions, seconds apart, ripped one wing of Elba High School to rubble Thursday night. Officials say there's little doubt the school was dynamited, but say they don't know why.

The explosions ripped the four-room wing of the school less than 30 minutes after a banquet ended in a cafeteria in another part of the building.

Police Chief I. F. Dunaway said the last of the banqueters had left the school before the blasts.

Two Negro students had entered the school last September, the chief said, but there "was absolutely no trouble between the races and, frankly, we never expected any."

losses have been lower each year, but still reduced profits by 34 cents per share in 1965.

The report discusses the company's efforts to gain new markets through aggressive promotion and lower selling prices for stainless made possible by lower production costs. Possible new stainless applications include automobile bumpers, patio and poolside furniture, and home heating and plumbing systems.

The sales record established in 1965 amounted to $313.5 million and income of $10.7 million, or $2.62 per common share compares with 1964 income of $9.8 million, or $2.41 per share, on sales of $283.3 million. Dividends paid last year to common and preferred shareholders totaled $5,174,000, more than in any year since 1957. Common stock dividends paid in 1965 were $1.20 per share.

Crucible Announces New Stainless Metal

PITTSBURGH — The Crucible Steel Co. today announced the introduction of an ultra - free-machining stainless steel, designated "416 F-Plus."

The drill machinability rating of this new product is about 10 per cent better than any other type 416 stainless commercially available, including 416 F.

Field evaluations bear out these findings, according to Josef H. Buerger, Crucible sales vice president.

"'416 F-Plus' was developed for the user who wants the ultimate in machinability, who is not interested in a product that can be hardened, and who is willing to accept some slight sacrifice in corrosion resistance," he said.

The increase in machinability primarily results from higher levels of manganese in "416 F-Plus." The combination of high sulfur and high manganeese results in an alloy distinctly and measurably superior in its machining characteristics.

2 Heavy Explosions Rip Alabama School

ELBA, Ala. (AP)—Two heavy explosions, seconds apart, ripped one wing of Elba High School to rubble Thursday night. Officials say there's little doubt the school was dynamited, but say they don't know why.

The explosions ripped the four-room wing of the school less than 30 minutes after a banquet ended in a cafeteria in another part of the building.

Police Chief I. F. Dunaway said the last of the banqueters had left the school before the blasts.

Two Negro students had entered the school last September, the chief said, but there "was absolutely no trouble between the races and, frankly, we never expected any."

New Trial Denied

EAST PALESTINE — County Judge Herbert Arfman Thursday denied a request for a new trial for Robert Johnson of Columbiana, convicted of assault and battery and fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in jail. Arfman recently found Johnson guilty of assault upon William Jackson of Leetonia at a Route 14 service station.

Man Injured In Wellsville

A Wellsville man injured in a fall at home was admitted early this morning to City Hospital, where six other district residents were treated Friday after separate mishaps.

William Erwin of 1245½ Main St., Wellsville, was in "fairly good" condition today with a shoulder injury received in a fall at home. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance about 1 a.m.

Joseph Arnott of 135 Indiana Ave., Chester, an employe of the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., suffered a laceration of a finger when his hand caught in machinery while at work yesterday.

Dwayne Garvey, son of Albert Garvey of Canton St., was treated for a fractured left elbow after he fell from a trampoline during a Westgate School gym class.

Robert Webber, son of William Webber of 3124 Gilson Ave., suffered a dislocated left middle finger while playing basketball.

Margaret Hampson of McKee St. was bitten on the left ankle by a neighbor's dog.

Cynthia Young, daughter of Roy Young of Grimms Bridge, suffered a cut cheek in a fall.

Mrs. Eloise Smith of Newell was treated for a sprained left ankle.

Mayor Penalizes 8 In Salineville Traffic Hearings

SALINEVILLE — Two drivers were fined and six others forfeited bonds in Mayor Stanley Fitch's court Thursday night.

Darrell Davis of Mechanicstown, charged with operating an unsafe vehicle, and Susan Kennedy of Salineville R. D. 1, cited for speeding, were fined $5 and costs each.

Forfeiting $11 bonds on charges of speeding as a result of a radar check Sunday on Main St. were Paul Richard Kerr of W. Main St., Edna Jarvis of West End, Joseph Smith of Andrews, Ind., James Rumley of Connellsville, Pa., Walter Felton of 420 Commerce St., Wellsville, and Walter Benton of Toronto.

Hearings were set later for Thomas Allgood of West End and Arthur Shane of Youngstown, also charged with speeding, who were unable to attend, Fitch said.

The Tide Of Battle In Asia

President Johnson would have been well-advised to omit any reference in his Freedom House speech to the tide of battle in Viet Nam.

His declaration that the tide has turned will be used to embarrass him in the months, perhaps the years, ahead. It will have the same boomeranging effect as Gen. MacArthur's sanguine prediction that U.S. troops would be "out of Korea by Christmas." In a few days, the Chinese launched their trans-Yalu offensive.

Like Gen. MacArthur, President Johnson is not seeking war with the Chinese. And war with the Chinese might materialize in Viet Nam the way it materialized in Korea — hordes of Chinese "volunteers" throwing themselves against U.S. troops as sympathizers of North Viet Nam.

When the United States ordered its military manpower into war in Korea, it encountered both Russia and China. Its troops were assailed by Russian equipment and Chinese equipment. But it never fought with either Russia or Japan officially. It never declared war.

In the same way, it is not fighting North Viet Nam now. It is pacifying a country involved in a civil war. It is doing in Viet Nam what Old World powers did in the Civil War here—intervening to influence an outcome.

The "tide of battle" turned in Korea many times. U.S. troops finally were forced to settle for a truce at the 38th parallel, nevertheless. No one ever questioned that more casualties were inflicted on the enemy than were sustained by U.S. forces—157,530, including 33,629 battle deaths and 20,617 deaths from other causes. The enemy may have sustained 10 times as many.

But comparative casualties meant nothing in Korea. It is doubtful if they will mean anything in Viet Nam. All that matters is whether the United States will be more willing to trade lives indefinitely in a part of the world where human lives are cheap than it was the last time.

Do-Or-Die Time

The tournament wars are on hand again for district high school basketball teams.

A few already have their feet wet in the do-or-die competition and others will plunge in shortly.

This is the opportunity for those who have had so-so seasons to get hot and make up for earlier mistakes. The East Liverpool Potters fall into this category.

While not of championship caliber on paper, the Blue and White has shown marked improvement during the latter part of the season to the point where it might pull a surprise or two — or more—in tournament play.

To East Liverpool and all other district teams remaining in tourney competition, happy hunting.

Highway Can Be Beautiful

The American Road Builder Association paid Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson the courtesy of making her its closing-day speaker when it held its annual convention in Denver.

Road builders, more than any other group, should bend a sympathetic ear to Mrs. Johnson's doctrine that highways can be beautiful. They, themselves, have done more to make highways beautiful than a generation of theorists.

They have put their skill to work on beautiful super-roads like the Ohio Turnpike and IR 71 in Ohio. Their artistry has pleased millions on highways like the Merritt Parkway in Connecticut, the Skyline Drive in Virginia and the New York Thruway. Good engineering plus decent respect have made these and spectacular developments like the Blue Ridge Parkway the standards of good appearance for the advocates of highway beautification.

No matter how many laws may be passed, no matter how much money may be pumped out in driblets to discourage ugliness, beautification of highways must depend on millions of individuals who have it in their power to decide between beauty and ugliness.

If every property owner were to do everything he could to make his premises as attractive as they could be made, highway beautification would take care of itself. There would be no more unsightliness.

But pending the far-off day when individuals improve and laws are fool-proof, all of us can be grateful for the beautification that has been made possible by good engineering, sound construction practices and skillful landscaping.

If highway improvement becomes an all-out project, as Mrs. Johnson hopes it will, the best of the roads already in use will be the standards.

Dorothy Parker Revised

It now is an open question whether a girl who wear glasses is wearing them to be in vogue or because she needs them.

There is the possibility it may be both. She may be wearing a pair of old-fashioned spectacles—the kind her great-grandmother discarded as being fuddy-duddy—for style and correcting her defective vision with a set of invisible contact lenses.

The question is whether some other things can be far behind once the girl faddists start to wear glasses. Now that Dorothy Parker's couplet about men rarely making passes at girls who wear glasses has been revised, what will the faddists try next?

The answer already is in sight. They will try their grandmothers' hair-dos. A few have tried "granny dresses," too, but there's no future in them for anyone but lost souls, a discovery real grandmothers made two generations ago.

Will they try flannel petticoats, camisoles, chemises and that most ludicrous of all get-ups, the teddy? Will they go all the way back to primitive days when grannies' rocked in slipper rockers on porches, puffed corncob pipes and dipped a little snuff from a box in an apron pocket?

Oh yes, aprons and sunbonnets? Are they on the schedule too?

Training Season

By Truman Twill

If the rest of us went to training camp each spring the way baseball players do, we might get the same results.

There would be the whiz kid from the back country, brash and confident, squaring off to take his job away from the leathery old-timer with the sardonic outlook and the high lifetime batting average.

Everybody would ooh and aah at the kid, graceful as a gazelle with the vitality of a bag of monkeys, with a cannon for an arm as they say in sportswriting. He would have a can't-miss tag on him.

Then the moment of truth would draw near. The phenom could do everything but hit the curve. Besides, he never had learned how to keep from eating himself into obesity. Also needed a silencer for his mouth.

Or there'd be the old-timer insisting he was as good as he ever was before in his long career, failing to mention he was that good for only about 45 minutes after breakfast.

All of which would be disclosed on hot days during afternoon drills when the old-timer wouldn't have the jump on the hot ones any more and easy outs started to turn into hurried throws and bleeders dribbling into the outfield.

There would be fancy Dans who could bring a sparkle to the eyes of the non-analytic spectators but couldn't dig the ball out of the webbing when it was time to throw it, or remember which base to throw it to.

There would be glue-footed sluggers who had to hit one out of the park to give them time to get where they were going, except they couldn't hit enough balls out of the park to make their glue-footedness feasible.

There would be early bloomers with equipment to put Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner to shame, except for the fact they had a bad habit of going dormant in June like Kentucky bluegrass.

There would be characters who couldn't stand prosperity and felt they had to fun it up while decent people were asleep.

And characters who couldn't keep a check rein on their bad habits long enough to show off their good characteristics.

Also blowoffs and clubhouse lawyers, too busy practicing their avocations to concentrate on laying down a bunt where it was supposed to go.

And acrobats with trick joints that popped out of line. And moodies who kept everybody in the dumps, even on bright days.

And a wide assortment of candidates for employment who could not make the grade for one reason or another and had to be cut from the squad before the teams began to play for keeps.

If the rest of us went to training camp each spring, the unemployment total, which the statisticians finally have whittled down to less than 5 per cent, would soar out of sight.

There would be nobody left but coaches and managers — and come the end of the season and another sixth-place finish and they'd be canned too.

An Icy Pledge

The cold war hasn't reached the iciest continent. Antarctica's 5,300,000 frozen square miles form a remarkable world laboratory where scientists from many countries work in harmony.

Fifteen nations with an interest in the Antarctic sustain a pact that for the first time pledges a large part of the world to peaceful purposes. The countries are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Russia, South Africa and the United States.

A State Department official cited other firsts for the 1959 pact: "It is the first treaty which prohibits nuclear explosions (and allows) adequate inspections. It is the first treaty to provide freedom of scientific investigation over large areas, and it constitutes a precedent in the field of disarmament, the prohibition of nuclear explosions, and the law of space."

The treaty stems from the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year which brought 66 nations together in world research projects. Scientific data was freely shared by all.

Labor Swinging To Rocky?

By Victor Riesel

Nelson A. Rockefeller is going for broke. That gives him quite a distance. And many powerful vote-getting labor leaders are his fellow travelers on an express train of history, which started rolling on New York City's transit lines just a few hours after the end of the strangling subway strike.

Victor Riesel

There positively is no doubt that Gov. Rockefeller hopes the train will take him right on to Washington. Some of the labor leaders may get off before Union depot if the Democratic presidential nominee is Lyndon Johnson or Hubert Humphrey. But they'll stay right on board with "Rocky" if the opposition is Sen. Robert Kennedy.

To insiders this was most obvious at the Irish-ballad-laden memorial ceremonies to Mike Quill in labor's traditional meeting grounds, the cavernous Manhattan Center Feb. 20. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, leaving his glass towers, was cheered not so much for his words as for his symbolic representation of President Johnson.

Praise of Gov. Rockefeller by the incisive and inscrutable Harry Van Arsdale, leader of one million Central Labor Council members, was heavily applauded. No one mentioned Bob Kennedy.

IT WAS THE OBVIOUS and sudden warmth towards "Rocky" on the part of thousands of unionists—and their influential leaders—which surprised some visitors at the memorial services.

Only those who know the inside story realized what was happening. And here is the behind-the-scenes maneuvering which may be the making of a Republican presidential candidate.

Over the weekend of Feb. 11 it appeared there might be another crippling transit strike—wildcat, this time.

The State Supreme Court had ruled that the transit strikers had violated the civil service anti-strike law and therefore were not enfitled to their money raises.

On Friday morning union leaders and lawyers met with Mayor Lindsay, who also hopes to catch that express train to the White House. Another crippling stoppage of the city's transit facilities would certainly have wrecked his timetable.

The mayor indicated that the only way out was for Gov. Rockefeller to do something with the law—force its repeal retroactively. But then the lawyers, including Lindsay's noted city corporation counsel, J. Lee Rankin, of Warren Commission fame, met Friday afternoon.

THEY JUST COULDN'T work out any legal appeals which would not take months—and which could get them a decision sufficiently favorable to put the Transit Authority's raises into the pay envelopes.

So they all decided to meet again with Mayor Lindsay at 2:30 p.m. the following Monday. Then they put the heat on Gov. Rockefeller—unbeknown to the mayor. Mr. Rockefeller was having none of it.

He did not think much of a retroactive law which would say, in effect, the Transport Workers Union people had not really broken the Condon-Wadlin Act during the stoppage. This would have made the billion-dollar walkout an un-strike, an action which would hardly cheer a still-irritated public. There is a gubernatorial reelection campaign upcoming.

So the labor leaders contacted AFL-CIO President George Meany, meeting with his high council in Florida. Mr. Meany telephoned Mr. Rockefeller. Then the ball was tossed to Mr. Van Arsdale, an ardent Democrat until the other month.

MR. VAN ARSDALE has become quite attached to Mr. Rockefeller. He had invited "Rocky" to speak to his big union rally, which was held just a few hours after the strike settlement last Jan. 13. This is a rare privilege reserved mostly for Democrats. Mr. Rockefeller did not come, but only because of the city's hangover chaos.

So, when Mr. Meany and Mr. Van Arsdale put it squarely to the governor to change his mind and push through a law, Mr. Rockefeller did a 180-degree turn. That was on Saturday.

On Sunday he announced he would do what the union leaders asked. Mr. Lindsay got the news on the air.

On Monday one of his aides called the union people and asked what the deuce was the need for a meeting. The law passed quickly. Mr. Rockefeller had settled everything for his new-found labor allies.

THERE IS MORE, much more. The governor also will approve a raise in the state minimum wage from 1.25 an hour to $1.50—a bill which he vetoed last year.

Thus there is no doubt that he will have much of labor's backing for the first time. In the 1962 gubernatorial campaign, Transport Workers Union President Matthew Guinan helped to lead labor's committee for Bob Kennedy's candidate, Robert Morgenthau. Now Mr. Guinan will back Mr. Rockefeller. So will Mr. Van Arsdale.

So will the Liberal party guided by labor leaders Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose. With such support Gov. Rockefeller could win by half-a-million votes—enough to crack the Kennedy Democratic machine, enough to give "Rocky" a fighting chance for the Republican nomination for the preidency, which he wants indeed.

That's why he's going for broke. But there will be a few labor dollars this time to help.

Shorter Term For Senators?

There has been talk about a proposed constitutional amendment to provide a four-year instead of a two-year term for members of the House of Representatives, but it's beginning to look now as if the country might perhaps prefer to see the present system retained for House members and the six-year term of senators reduced to four or possibly two years.

David Lawrence

The current controversy over Viet Nam has illustrated the point. Many senators may be acting directly contrary to the wishes of the majority of the people of their states, but there is no way by which the electorate can immediately register its protest and replace the senators. It's significant that some of the recent petitions demanding, in effect, that the President curtail military operations in Viet Nam emanated from senators almost all of whom are not up for re-election this year.

At present, only one-third of the members of the Senate come up for election every two years, so two-thirds are immune at this time from any possible penalty for their views.

Under the parliamentary system of government in many countries, the people have a virtually instantaneous check on the members of the national legislature. This results in a sense of responsibility to the voters, instead of the irresponsibility which apparently develops in the case of Congress when members do not have to answer for their views for a relatively long time afterwards.

EVERY PUBLIC OPINION poll taken thus far indicates that the majority of the American people want to see a firm stand in the Viet Nam situation. While everybody wishfully hopes that the war may be ended soon, there is no substantial support for withdrawal or retreat or surrender.

It's significant, too, that the members of the House of Representatives — all of whom come up for election every two years — have expressed little dissent from the administration's policy in the Viet Nam War, and, in fact, have been critical of those senators they regard as "soft-liners."

Rep. Armistead I. Selden, D-Ala., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Latin America, said the other day that the American people have viewed with much concern the Viet Nam hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He declared that it was unfortunate that similar publicity had not been given to an international Communist meeting in Havana last month at which, he said, it was clearly established that the aggression in Viet Nam "is merely one front in a world-wide campaign against the free world."

MR. SELDEN'S SPEECH was promptly praised by Representatives John Monaghan, Co-Conn., Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., and H. R. Gross, R-Iowa.

While it's true that some members of the House favor a four-year instead of a two-year term, sentiment is growing against the idea.

Rep. Otis Pike, D-NY, said this week, for instance, that the four-year term for House members was "nothing more than an effort to cut the voting power of the average citizen in half."

Rep. Bert Bandstra, D-Iowa, who was elected for the first time to the House of Representatives in 1964 with only 53.4 per cent of the vote, opposed the longer term and declared: "What we ought to be thinking of is reducing the terms of some of our elected officials." He noted that, while probably few senators would agree with him, "all the reasons for a six-year term in the Senate have long since disappeared" and the tenure now is "entirely too long."

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS usually recognize that they must reflect correctly the views of their constituents back home, but on the Viet Nam controversy it is apparent that mistaken interpretations have been made in some instances. This may be because all wars are unpopular and there is an underlying sentiment of opposition to any conflict involving loss of human life. When, however, the citizens are told all the facts and the point is brought home that failure to stand up in a small war can only lead to a larger one in which the sacrifices would have to be greater, they promptly recognize the difference between the opposing viewpoints and become anxious to see proper steps taken that will prevent larger wars.

Highway Can Be Beautiful

The American Road Builder Association paid Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson the courtesy of making her its closing-day speaker when it held its annual convention in Denver.

Road builders, more than any other group, should bend a sympathetic ear to Mrs. Johnson's doctrine that highways can be beautiful. They, themselves, have done more to make highways beautiful than a generation of theorists.

They have put their skill to work on beautiful super-roads like the Ohio Turnpike and IR 71 in Ohio. Their artistry has pleased millions on highways like the Merritt Parkway in Connecticut, the Skyline Drive in Virginia and the New York Thruway. Good engineering plus decent respect have made these and spectacular developments like the Blue Ridge Parkway the standards of good appearance for the advocates of highway beautification.

No matter how many laws may be passed, no matter how much money may be pumped out in driblets to discourage ugliness, beautification of highways must depend on millions of individuals who have it in their power to decide between beauty and ugliness.

If every property owner were to do everything he could to make his premises as attractive as they could be made, highway beautification would take care of itself. There would be no more unsightliness.

But pending the far-off day when individuals improve and laws are fool-proof, all of us can be grateful for the beautification that has been made possible by good engineering, sound construction practices and skillful landscaping.

If highway improvement becomes an all-out project, as Mrs. Johnson hopes it will, the best of the roads already in use will be the standards.

Dorothy Parker Revised

It now is an open question whether a girl who wear glasses is wearing them to be in vogue or because she needs them.

There is the possibility it may be both. She may be wearing a pair of old-fashioned spectacles—the kind her great-grandmother discarded as being fuddy-duddy—for style and correcting her defective vision with a set of invisible contact lenses.

The question is whether some other things can be far behind once the girl faddists start to wear glasses. Now that Dorothy Parker's couplet about men rarely making passes at girls who wear glasses has been revised, what will the faddists try next?

The answer already is in sight. They will try their grandmothers' hair-dos. A few have tried "granny dresses," too, but there's no future in them for anyone but lost souls, a discovery real grandmothers made two generations ago.

Will they try flannel petticoats, camisoles, chemises and that most ludicrous of all get-ups, the teddy? Will they go all the way back to primitive days when grannies rocked in slipper rockers on porches, puffed corncob pipes and dipped a little snuff from a box in an apron pocket?

Oh yes, aprons and sunbonnets? Are they on the schedule too?

Training Season

By Truman Twill

If the rest of us went to training camp each spring the way baseball players do, we might get the same results.

There would be the whiz kid from the back country, brash and confident, squaring off to take his job away from the leathery old-timer with the sardonic outlook and the high lifetime batting average.

Everybody would ooh and aah at the kid, graceful as a gazelle with the vitality of a bag of monkeys, with a cannon for an arm as they say in sportswriting. He would have a can't-miss tag on him.

Then the moment of truth would draw near. The phenom could do everything but hit the curve. Besides, he never had learned how to keep from eating himself into obesity. Also needed a silencer for his mouth.

Or there'd be the old-timer insisting he was as good as he ever was before in his long career, failing to mention he was that good for only about 45 minutes after breakfast.

All of which would be disclosed on hot days during afternoon drills when the old-timer wouldn't have the jump on the hot ones any more and easy outs started to turn into hurried throws and bleeders dribbling into the outfield.

There would be fancy Dans who could bring a sparkle to the eyes of the non-analytic spectators but couldn't dig the ball out of the webbing when it was time to throw it, or remember which base to throw it to.

There would be glue-footed sluggers who had to hit one out of the park to give them time to get where they were going, except they couldn't hit enough balls out of the park to make their glue-footedness feasible.

There would be early bloomers with equipment to put Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner to shame, except for the fact they had a bad habit of going dormant in June like Kentucky bluegrass.

There would be characters who couldn't stand prosperity and felt they had to fun it up while decent people were asleep.

And characters who couldn't keep a check rein on their bad habits long enough to show off their good characteristics.

Also blowoffs and clubhouse lawyers, too busy practicing their avocations to concentrate on laying down a bunt where it was supposed to go.

And acrobats with trick joints that popped out of line. And moodies who kept everybody in the dumps, even on bright days.

And a wide assortment of candidates for employment who could not make the grade for one reason or another and had to be cut from the squad before the teams began to play for keeps.

If the rest of us went to training camp each spring, the unemployment total, which the statisticians finally have whittled down to less than 5 per cent, would soar out of sight.

There would be nobody left but coaches and managers — and come the end of the season and another sixth-place finish and they'd be canned too.

An Icy Pledge

The cold war hasn't reached the iciest continent. Antarctica's 5,300,000 frozen square miles form a remarkable world laboratory where scientists from many countries work in harmony.

Fifteen nations with an interest in the Antarctic sustain a pact that for the first time pledges a large part of the world to peaceful purposes. The countries are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Russia, South Africa and the United States.

A State Department official cited other firsts for the 1959 pact: "It is the first treaty which prohibits nuclear explosions (and allows) adequate inspections. It is the first treaty to provide freedom of scientific investigation over large areas, and it constitutes a precedent in the field of disarmament, the prohibition of nuclear explosions, and the law of space."

The treaty stems from the 1957-58 International Geophysical Year which brought 66 nations together in world research projects. Scientific data was freely shared by all.

Labor Swinging To Rocky?

By Victor Riesel

Nelson A. Rockefeller is going for broke. That gives him quite a distance. And many powerful vote-getting labor leaders are his fellow travelers on an express train of history, which started rolling on New York City's transit lines just a few hours after the end of the strangling subway strike.

Victor Riesel

There positively is no doubt that Gov. Rockefeller hopes the train will take him right on to Washington. Some of the labor leaders may get off before Union depot if the Democratic presidential nominee is Lyndon Johnson or Hubert Humphrey. But they'll stay right on board with "Rocky" if the opposition is Sen. Robert Kennedy.

To insiders this was most obvious at the Irish-ballad-laden memorial ceremonies to Mike Quill in labor's traditional meeting grounds, the cavernous Manhattan Center Feb. 20. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, leaving his glass towers, was cheered not so much for his words as for his symbolic representation of President Johnson.

Praise of Gov. Rockefeller by the incisive and inscrutable Harry Van Arsdale, leader of one million Central Labor Council members, was heavily applauded. No one mentioned Bob Kennedy.

IT WAS THE OBVIOUS and sudden warmth towards "Rocky" on the part of thousands of unionists—and their influential leaders—which surprised some visitors at the memorial services.

Only those who know the inside story realized what was happening. And here is the behind-the-scenes maneuvering which may be the making of a Republican presidential candidate.

Over the weekend of Feb. 11 it appeared there might be another crippling transit strike—wildcat, this time.

The State Supreme Court had ruled that the transit strikers had violated the civil service anti-strike law and therefore were not entitled to their money raises.

On Friday morning union leaders and lawyers met with Mayor Lindsay, who also hopes to catch that express train to the White House. Another crippling stoppage of the city's transit facilities would certainly have wrecked his timetable.

The mayor indicated that the only way out was for Gov. Rockefeller to do something with the law—force its repeal retroactively. But then the lawyers, including Lindsay's noted city corporation counsel, J. Lee Rankin, of Warren Commission fame, met Friday afternoon.

THEY JUST COULDN'T work out any legal appeals which would not take months—and which could get them a decision sufficiently favorable to put the Transit Authority's raises into the pay envelopes.

So they all decided to meet again with Mayor Lindsay at 2:30 p.m. the following Monday. Then they put the heat on Gov. Rockefeller—unbeknown to the mayor. Mr. Rockefeller was having none of it.

He did not think much of a retroactive law which would say, in effect, the Transport Workers Union people had not really broken the Condon-Wadlin Act during the stoppage. This would have made the billion-dollar walkout an un-strike, an action which would hardly cheer a still-irritated public. There is a gubernatorial reelection campaign upcoming.

So the labor leaders contacted AFL-CIO President George Meany, meeting with his high council in Florida. Mr. Meany telephoned Mr. Rockefeller. Then the ball was tossed to Mr. Van Arsdale, an ardent Democrat until the other month.

MR. VAN ARSDALE has become quite attached to Mr. Rockefeller. He had invited "Rocky" to speak to his big union rally, which was held just a few hours after the strike settlement last Jan. 13. This is a rare privilege reserved mostly for Democrats. Mr. Rockefeller did not come, but only because of the city's hangover chaos.

So, when Mr. Meany and Mr. Van Arsdale put it squarely to the governor to change his mind and push through a law, Mr. Rockefeller did a 180-degree turn. That was on Saturday.

On Sunday he announced he would do what the union leaders asked. Mr. Lindsay got the news on the air.

On Monday one of his aides called the union people and asked what the deuce was the need for a meeting. The law passed quickly. Mr. Rockefeller had settled everything for his new-found labor allies.

THERE IS MORE, much more. The governor also will approve a raise in the state minimum wage from 1.25 an hour to $1.50—a bill which he vetoed last year.

Thus there is no doubt that he will have much of labor's backing for the first time. In the 1962 gubernatorial campaign, Transport Workers Union President Matthew Guinan helped to lead labor's committee for Bob Kennedy's candidate, Robert Morgenthau. Now Mr. Guinan will back Mr. Rockefeller. So will Mr. Van Arsdale.

So will the Liberal party guided by labor leaders Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose. With such support Gov. Rockefeller could win by half-a-million votes—enough to crack the Kennedy Democratic machine, enough to give "Rocky" a fighting chance for the Republican nomination for the preidency, which he wants indeed.

That's why he's going for broke. But there will be a few labor dollars this time to help.

Shorter Term For Senators?

There has been talk about a proposed constitutional amendment to provide a four-year instead of a two-year term for members of the House of Representatives, but it's beginning to look now as if the country might perhaps prefer to see the present system retained for House members and the six-year term of senators reduced to four or possibly two years.

David Lawrence

The current controversy over Viet Nam has illustrated the point. Many senators may be acting directly contrary to the wishes of the majority of the people of their states, but there is no way by which the electorate can immediately register its protest and replace the senators. It's significant that some of the recent petitions demanding, in effect, that the President curtail military operations in Viet Nam emanated from senators almost all of whom are not up for re-election this year.

At present, only one-third of the members of the Senate come up for election every two years, so two-thirds are immune at this time from any possible penalty for their views.

Under the parliamentary system of government in many countries, the people have a virtually instantaneous check on the members of the national legislature. This results in a sense of responsibility to the voters, instead of the irresponsibility which apparently develops in the case of Congress when members do not have to answer for their views for a relatively long time afterwards.

EVERY PUBLIC OPINION poll taken thus far indicates that the majority of the American people want to see a firm stand in the Viet Nam situation. While everybody wishfully hopes that the war may be ended soon, there is no substantial support for withdrawal or retreat or surrender.

It's significant, too, that the members of the House of Representatives — all of whom come up for election every two years — have expressed little dissent from the administration's policy in the Viet Nam War, and, in fact, have been critical of those senators they regard as "soft-liners."

Rep. Armistead I. Selden, D-Ala., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Latin America, said the other day that the American people have viewed with much concern the Viet Nam hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He declared that it was unfortunate that similar publicity had not been given to an international Communist meeting in Havana last month at which, he said, it was clearly established that the aggression in Viet Nam "is merely one front in a world-wide campaign against the free world."

MR. SELDEN'S SPEECH was promptly praised by Representatives John Monaghan, Co-Conn., Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., and H. R. Gross, R-Iowa.

While it's true that some members of the House favor a four-year instead of a two-year term, sentiment is growing against the idea.

Rep. Otis Pike, D-NY, said this week, for instance, that the four-year term for House members was "nothing more than an effort to cut the voting power of the average citizen in half."

Rep. Bert Bandstra, D-Iowa, who was elected for the first time to the House of Representatives in 1964 with only 53.4 per cent of the vote, opposed the longer term and declared: "What we ought to be thinking of is reducing the terms of some of our elected officials." He noted that, while probably few senators would agree with him, "all the reasons for a six-year term in the Senate have long since disapeared" and the tenure now is "entirely too long."

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS usually recognize that they must reflect correctly the views of their constituents back home, but on the Viet Nam controversy it is apparent that mistaken interpretations have been made in some instances. This may be because all wars are unpopular and there is an underlying sentiment of opposition to any conflict involving loss of human life. When, however, the citizens are told all the facts and the point is brought home that failure to stand up in a small war can only lead to a larger one in which the sacrifices would have to be greater, they promptly recognize the difference between the opposing viewpoints and become anxious to see proper steps taken that will prevent larger wars.

Summer Playlot Activity To Be Curtailed Slightly

The summer playground program of the East Liverpool Recreation Council has been cut from 10 to 9 weeks to stay within the limit of available funds.

The action was taken by the Council Thursday night during a meeting at the high school on the recommendation of the planning committee.

The Council's expenses in 1965 surpassed its resources and reserve funds had to be used, it was explained.

This year, with the same amount of money anticipated from the United Fund, an equivalent program could not be authorized.

Officials said they are continuing to study the possibility of obtaining supplementary funds.

Dates for the playground season were set for June 13-Aug. 12.

This will mark the first time the Council has had to take curtailment action since its inception in 1945.

The group plans to meet with the Hancock County Board of Education in the near future to discuss liability of the playgrounds in the county sponsored by parent - teacher associations.

The Council supplies supervision for winter recreation at Thompson Park and also supervision for the 17 playgrounds located in East Liverpool, Calcutta, Chester and Newell.

Officers today reminded all sponsoring organizations that the group's constitution states that they must be represented at all meetings or supervision will be withheld at the playgrounds.

The next general meeting will be June 9.

Monaca Man Hospitalized In Area Crash

A Monaca motorist was injured and his car and a truck of a Columbiana man were damaged in a crash early this morning on icy Route 51, about six miles north of Rochester.

Pennsylvania State Police at the Chippewa Barracks said Thomas Belish, 25, of Monaca was admitted to Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls with facial lacerations and contusions of the chest and right arm.

Police said the mishap started at 4:40 a.m. when Warren R. Chain, 45, of 203 Union St., Columbiana, was headed south and lost control on the icy road. His truck struck the west embankment and then overturned on the highway.

About five minutes later, Belish, also traveling south, failed to see the overturned truck until too late to avoid skidding into it.

Avoid Timetable In Viet Solution, Taylor Urges

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—"Let's not be clockwatchers" with a hard-and-fast timetable for a Viet Nam solution, Gen Maxwell D. Taylor urged in an Ohio University appearance Thursday night.

The former U. S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam spoke here, and followed with a news conference, in the wake of his testimony last week at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee inquiry.

"Now that we are over the great debate," he said, referring to the Senate hearings, "and I hope it is over—we must realize we won't solve our problems with words but with deeds."

But he counseled patience in what he called "a test of national courage" to face the nation in the coming months.

He called the Administration's present course in Viet Nam the only sensible one, at least at this time.

He said Administration policy has ruled out the "extreme military solution"—total victory — from serious consideration as an objective, just, as he said, a pullout or a pullback is out of the question.

Asked about what he called a calculated risk that the Viet Nam conflict won't escalate into war with Red China, Taylor granted that there is that possibility.

Are we prepared to meet such a development, the former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was asked.

Taylor's reply: "Unless the Joint Chiefs of Staff have gone to sleep since I've left, we have stacks of plans," to handle the Chinese, and plenty of weapons.

He said that he doesn't believe the Chinese want war.

He said Hanoi undoubtedly would think twice before opening the door for a traditionally hated enemy of the Vietnamese people to move in.

Regarding the Foreign Relations Committee hearings, Taylor said they didn't change opinions in the Senate; that he doubts more than a handful of congressmen would vote to discard the August 1964 resolution giving the President authority to meet situations as they arise in Viet Nam.

But, the general said, the hearings must have had an impact on some 20 million television viewers. "I hope it generated more light than confusion for them," he said.

Rhodes' Lake Erie Pipeline Plan Fades To Background

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—That Lake Erie pipeline Gov. James A. Rhodes boosted for northwestern Ohio keeps fading further into the background in the area water development planning.

Plans projected at a meeting of an advisory council for water resources development in the area Thursday found the publicized pipeline idea fallen pretty much by the wayside.

Ben Bare of Burgess-Niple, Inc., reporting on progress of the firm's survey of water uses, requirements and capabilities in northwest Ohio, made the point.

He told the 20 council members and Ohio Water Commission officials that as things look now, the emphasis will be on development of upland storage of water wherever possible.

This would be highly preferable, the consultant said, to having the upland water run into Lake Erie, then having to pipe it back out.

If water resources prove insufficient, planners can fall back on the pipeline, Bare said.

Lima and Findlay scrapped the pipeline prospects last year, saying they were developing plentiful water supply in their own bailiwicks and wouldn't contribute to the pipeline cost.

At Thursday's meeting, Lima Utilities Director Sharon Bresler told the council his city will be glad to do what it can, when it is in position to do so, in helping extend municipal water supplies throughout its metropolitan area.

Lima has a water development plan through the year 2000 and is moving to acquire new reservoir sites.

The council meets again in May.

W. Va. May Get Bid To Hike Minimum Age To Buy Beer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The state of West Virginia may be asked to raise its minimum age requirement for purchasing beer.

A resolution was introduced into the Maryland legislature Thursday asking West Virginia to consider changing its liquor laws, which permit 18-year-olds to buy beer.

Sen. George R. Hughes Jr., R-Allegheny, asked that many teenagers go from Maryland to Eastern Panhandle towns to obtain beer legally. In Maryland one must be 21 to buy beer.

Hughes also said the fact that West Virginia permits beer sales on Sunday while Maryland does not is also causing some problems.

He listed several Maryland cities which are quite close to West Virginia towns where beer purchases can be made quite easily.

The resolution introduced by Hughes noted that "West Virginia authorities are cooperating with authorities in Maryland to overcome these problems, but they still persist and perhaps will not be solved unless there are changes in the laws of West Virginia."

Hughes also requested that the West Virginia legislature change its laws to conform to Maryland's or make it illegal to purchase beer or liquor there by a person who would be prohibited from doing so in another state.

Pennsylvania State Police at the Chippewa Barracks said Thomas Belish, 25, of Monaca was admitted to Providence Hospital in Beaver Falls with facial lacerations and contusions of the chest and right arm.

Police said the mishap started at 4:40 a.m. when Warren R. Chain, 45, of 203 Union St., Columbiana, was headed south and lost control on the icy road. His truck struck the west embankment and then overturned on the highway.

About five minutes later, Belish, also traveling south, failed to see the overturned truck until too late to avoid skidding into it.

Avoid Timetable In Viet Solution, Taylor Urges

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—"Let's not be clockwatchers" with a hard-and-fast timetable for a Viet Nam solution, Gen Maxwell D. Taylor urged in an Ohio University appearance Thursday night.

The former U. S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam spoke here, and followed with a news conference, in the wake of his testimony last week at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee inquiry.

"Now that we are over the great debate," he said, referring to the Senate hearings, "and I hope it is over—we must realize we won't solve our problems with words but with deeds."

But he counseled patience in what he called "a test of national courage" to face the nation in the coming months.

He called the Administration's present course in Viet Nam the only sensible one, at least at this time.

He said Administration policy has ruled out the "extreme military solution"—total victory — from serious consideration as an objective, just, as he said, a pullout or a pullback is out of the question.

Asked about what he called a calculated risk that the Viet Nam conflict won't escalate into war with Red China, Taylor granted that there is that possibility.

Are we prepared to meet such a development, the former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was asked.

Taylor's reply: "Unless the Joint Chiefs of Staff have gone to sleep since I've left, we have stacks of plans," to handle the Chinese, and plenty of weapons.

He said that he doesn't believe the Chinese want war.

He said Hanoi undoubtedly would think twice before opening the door for a traditionally hated enemy of the Vietnamese people to move in.

Regarding the Foreign Relations Committee hearings, Taylor said they didn't change opinions in the Senate; that he doubts more than a handful of congressmen would vote to discard the August 1964 resolution giving the President authority to meet situations as they arise in Viet Nam.

But, the general said, the hearings must have had an impact on some 20 million television viewers. "I hope it generated more light than confusion for them," he said.

Rhodes' Lake Erie Pipeline Plan Fades To Background

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—That Lake Erie pipeline Gov. James A. Rhodes boosted for northwestern Ohio keeps fading further into the background in the area water development planning.

Plans projected at a meeting of an advisory council for water resources development in the area Thursday found the publicized pipeline idea fallen pretty much by the wayside.

Ben Bare of Burgess-Niple, Inc., reporting on progress of the firm's survey of water uses, requirements and capabilities in northwest Ohio, made the point.

He told the 20 council members and Ohio Water Commission officials that as things look now, the emphasis will be on development of upland storage of water wherever possible.

This would be highly preferable, the consultant said, to having the upland water run into Lake Erie, then having to pipe it back out.

If water resources prove insufficient, planners can fall back on the pipeline, Bare said.

Lima and Findlay scrapped the pipeline prospects last year, saying they were developing plentiful water supply in their own bailiwicks and wouldn't contribute to the pipeline cost.

At Thursday's meeting, Lima Utilities Director Sharon Bresler told the council his city will be glad to do what it can, when it is in position to do so, in helping extend municipal water supplies throughout its metropolitan area.

Lima has a water development plan through the year 2000 and is moving to acquire new reservoir sites.

The council meets again in May.

W. Va. May Get Bid To Hike Minimum Age To Buy Beer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The state of West Virginia may be asked to raise its minimum age requirement for purchasing beer.

A resolution was introduced into the Maryland legislature Thursday asking West Virginia to consider changing its liquor laws, which permit 18-year-olds to buy beer.

Sen. George R. Hughes Jr., R-Allegheny, asked that many teenagers go from Maryland to Eastern Panhandle towns to obtain beer legally. In Maryland one must be 21 to buy beer.

Hughes also said the fact that West Virginia permits beer sales on Sunday while Maryland does not is also causing some problems.

He listed several Maryland cities which are quite close to West Virginia towns where beer purchases can be made quite easily.

The resolution introduced by Hughes noted that "West Virginia authorities are cooperating with authorities in Maryland to overcome these problems, but they still persist and perhaps will not be solved unless there are changes in the laws of West Virginia."

Hughes also requested that the West Virginia legislature change its laws to conform to Maryland's or make it illegal to purchase beer or liquor there by a person who would be prohibited from doing so in another state.

Casey Names Leader Drive Co-Chairman

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—State Sen. Robert Casey named former Gov. George M. Leader as a co-chairman for his Democratic primary campaign for governor.

Named with Leader was Mrs. Rita Wilson Kane of Pittsburgh, now serving her second term as Allegheny County register of wills.

"I am honored that Gov. Leader has agreed to give his time and talent to our Democratic campaign," said Casey.

Changes Studied By Postal Clerks

A discussion on recent postal legislation and how it affects smaller post offices highlighted a session of Local 50, United Federation of Postal Clerks, at the YMCA this week.

Frederick Yowler, national vice president in the Cincinnati region, and Harry Heck of Akron, state president, conducted the discussion and answered questions.

They were introduced by Harry Hicks, who, with William Schepp, was in charge of the program. James Martin is president.

Representatives from Wellsville, East Palesitne and Struthers post offices attended.

The next meeting will be Monday night at the Potters Savings and Loan Co. annex.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Lander: I have worked for this firm for 12 years. I started at a modest salary because the boss assured me that I would "grow with the company." The company has grown and I've made a significant contribution. Yet I've received exactly one salary increase—four years ago.

There are no bonus arrangements, no stock options, no chance that I ever will share in the profits. I'm on a straight salary, plus a turkey for Christmas. Whenever I talk to my boss about a raise he tells me I'm loyal, and invaluable to the company. He lays on the compliments, then says I should be happy to work for people who appreciate me.

I have three children to put through college. When I ask my wife if I should leave she says, "A bird in the hand ——." What do you advise? — SOFT-SOAPED.

Dear Soaped: They won't take birds as payment for college tuition any more, or compliments either.

Look around for a company that can use your talents. Equally important is the quality of people you'd be working for and with. Be selective. When you find the combination tell your boss goodby, and next Christmas send him a turkey.

Fading Father

Dear Ann: When I first married Jim he always seemed to disappear when guests arrived. He'd either go to the basement and repair the lawn mower or out to the garage and change the oil in the car, or uptairs to rummage around in old papers and magazines.

It caused me a lot of embarrassment and he knew it but he just wouldn't change so I gave up inviting company at night.

Now that our children are teen-ager it's the same story. When Carla told us a boy friend would be coming over and she wanted dad to meet him I knew what would happen. And it did. The minute the boy showed up, Jim went downstairs and started to putter around. He stayed there for an hour.

Finally Carlo took the boy downstairs and introduced him to her dad. Jim was very friendly and they got along fine.

What can be done to change Jim? Why is he like this? — CONCERNED.

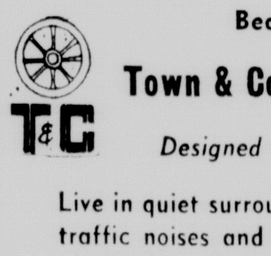

-:-

Dear Con: Jim is ill at ease with strangers and he avoids discomfort by "disappearing." I doubt that he ever will change, so accept him as he is —and work around it as best you can.

5 Officers Suspended In Probe Of Thefts

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Police chief Al Farkas suspended five policemen Thursday in an investigation of alleged nighttime thefts from downtown stores.

Farkas suid no charges had yet been filed, and he declined to reveal the names of the suspended policemen.

The suspected burglaries were discovered in a routine inspection by Lt. Lester Elmire when he came across three policemen inside a downtown store, said Farkas.

The chief said some policemen assigned to check doors during the night apparently entered stores they found open. He said he thought the items taken apparently were shirts, trousers, shoes and miscellaneous toilet articles.

'JUMP' Grows

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Program Has Community Scope

Where did the idea for the planned series of five public meetings on community problems come from?

"It grew like Topsy," the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church said, referring to JUMP — Joining Up For Mutual Progress.

The JUMP programs will begin next Wednesday night at 8 at the First Christian Church, with County Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis as speaker.

—:—

THE SECOND program will be March 9 at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, with Don Roberts of the Columbiana County Mental Health Clinic the speaker.

Rev. Salisbury said the idea grew out of a concern about the relation of the churches with the community.

"What if all church programs were put in a junk heap? Who in the community would miss them, except for a few involved?"

"What goes on inside any church that makes any difference to the community in which it exists? Oh sure, churches and ministers tell people to be good, not say bad words, do bad things, but when it comes to dealing with real needs and issues of real people in the community, where are the people who gather in churches? Most usually the gutsy stuff of community life is never even mentioned in churches.

He said the thought occurred that what churches and church people needed was to stop talking and do some listening for a change, listening to persons who by their vocation and daily work are mixed up to their ears in the lives of people of the community. "Perhaps, if people really knew the facts about community life which don't appear in the newspapers very much this would be a beginning."

With this in mind, five public personalities were invited to share with the St. Stephen's congregation their views about the "facts of life" as they experience them in their day-to-day jobs.

These included the county prosecutor, the probate judge, the high school principal, the county administrator for the Mental Health Clinic and the city public nurse.

"The reaction of these persons without exception was one of enthusiasm about being asked. To some extent, they expressed surprise that churches would be interested in bringing their concerns into the Sanctuary," he said.

—:—

AT THIS point, JUMP made a significant change of direction. Members of the local congregation began asking some questions about proposed series of meetings. Today is an era of growing church unity and cooperation, they said. Real community needs are the common concern of all churches in the area. Why do we go it alone? Why not ask other congregations to help us?

With some hesitation and timidity the leaders of four other congregations were approached and JUMP began to take on a "community" look.

The surprise was the eagerness and enthusiasm with which other ministers and church members responded. Real concern was shown. They were eager to help and wanted to know how they could make a contribution with their own resources.

Informal isolated conversations were held among clergy of St. Aloysius, Trinity United Presbyterian, the First Christian, St. Stephen's and the Beth Shalom Congregation. Out of this came the wish to gather as ministers with a few representative laymen to lay some basic plans for holding the gatherings and informing the community.

The first and only meeting of representatives of these five congregations was held last Sunday at St. Aloysius' rectory. It was here that JUMP was born in its final form and was given its name.

THE PROJECT had become not only a part of the five congregations through the interest of the church leaders of each, but had grown in scope to include the entire community.

The ideas which JUMP incorporated came about quickly with little or no long range planning. Many of them originated with the lay leaders.

"Despair produced a change in thinking and resulted in the spark of an idea, "Rev. Salisbury said. "In 10 days, the spark has been fanned into a small fire. No one knows how vigorously it will burn."

LISBON — A change in plea from not guilty to guilty to a burglary charge in Common Pleas Court has resulted in a 1-to-15-year sentence in the Ohio State Penitentiary for a former resident of Barberton.

Changing his plea before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard was Clifton Marvin Gregory, 23, who already was serving a sentence at the penitentiary prior to sentencing Wednesday. Judge Buzzard ordered the sentences be served concurrently.

Gregory was named in a secret indictment returned by the January 1964 grand jury in conjunction with the Nov. 30, 1963, Burglary of Blinn's Tavern in East Liverpool.

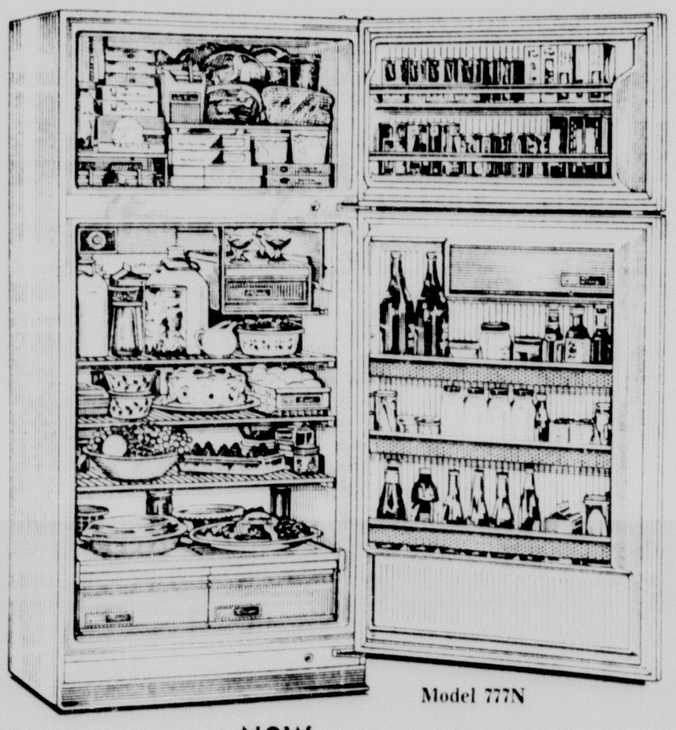

Gregory's alleged companion, Ronald Grady, 26, of Akron, was sentenced Feb. 14 to a similar term at the penitentiary.

Farkas said no charges had yet been filed, and he declined to reveal the names of the suspended policemen.

The suspected burglaries were discovered in a routine inspection by Lt. Lester Elmire when he came across three policemen inside a downtown store, said Farkas.

The chief said some policemen assigned to check doors during the night apparently entered stores they found open. He said he thought the items taken apparently were shirts, trousers, shoes and miscellaneous toilet articles.

'JUMP' Grows

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Program Has Community Scope

Where did the idea for the planned series of five public meetings on community problems come from?

"It grew like Topsy," the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church said, referring to JUMP — Joining Up For Mutual Progress.

The JUMP programs will begin next Wednesday night at 8 at the First Christian Church, with County Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis as speaker.

—:—

THE SECOND program will be March 9 at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, with Don Roberts of the Columbiana County Mental Health Clinic the speaker.

Rev. Salisbury said the idea grew out of a concern about the relation of the churches with the community.

"What if all church programs were put in a junk heap? Who in the community would miss them, except for a few involved?"

"What goes on inside any church that makes any difference to the community in which it exists? Oh sure, churches and ministers tell people to be good, not say bad words, do bad things, but when it comes to dealing with real needs and issues of real people in the community, where are the people who gather in churches? Most usually the gutsy stuff of community life is never even mentioned in churches.

He said the thought occurred that what churches and church people needed was to stop talking and do some listening for a change, listening to persons who by their vocation and daily work are mixed up to their ears in the lives of people of the community. "Perhaps, if people really knew the facts about community life which don't appear in the newspapers very much this would be a beginning."

With this in mind, five public personalities were invited to share with the St. Stephen's congregation their views about the "facts of life" as they experience them in their day-to-day jobs.

These included the county prosecutor, the probate judge, the high school principal, the county administrator for the Mental Health Clinic and the city public nurse.

"The reaction of these persons without exception was one of enthusiasm about being asked. To some extent, they expressed surprise that churches would be interested in bringing their concerns into the Sanctuary," he said.

—:—

AT THIS point, JUMP made a significant change of direction. Members of the local congregation began asking some questions about proposed series of meetings. Today is an era of growing church unity and cooperation, they said. Real community needs are the common concern of all churches in the area. Why do we go it alone? Why not ask other congregations to help us?

With some hesitation and timidity the leaders of four other congregations were approached and JUMP began to take on a "community" look.

The surprise was the eagerness and enthusiasm with which other ministers and church members responded. Real concern was shown. They were eager to help and wanted to know how they could make a contribution with their own resources.

Informal isolated conversations were held among clergy of St. Aloysius, Trinity United Presbyterian, the First Christian, St. Stephen's and the Beth Shalom Congregation. Out of this came the wish to gather as ministers with a few representative laymen to lay some basic plans for holding the gatherings and informing the community.

The first and only meeting of representatives of these five congregations was held last Sunday at St. Aloysius' rectory. It was here that JUMP was born in its final form and was given its name.

THE PROJECT had become not only a part of the five congregations through the interest of the church leaders of each, but had grown in scope to include the entire community.

The ideas which JUMP incorporated came about quickly with little or no long range planning. Many of them originated with the lay leaders.

"Despair produced a change in thinking and resulted in the spark of an idea, "Rev. Salisbury said. "In 10 days, the spark has been fanned into a small fire. No one knows how vigorously it will burn."

Pen Term Set In Case Here

LISBON — A change in plea from not guilty to guilty to a burglary charge in Common Pleas Court has resulted in a 1-to-15-year sentence in the Ohio State Penitentiary for a former resident of Barberton.

Changing his plea before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard was Clifton Marvin Gregory, 23, who already was serving a sentence at the penitentiary prior to sentencing Wednesday. Judge Buzzard ordered the sentences be served concurrently.

Gregory was named in a secret indictment returned by the January 1964 grand jury in conjunction with the Nov. 30, 1963, Burglary of Blinn's Tavern in East Liverpool.

Gregory's alleged companion, Ronald Grady, 26, of Akron, was sentenced Feb. 14 to a similar term at the penitentiary.

takes up the cases, probably next week.

The government brief went far beyond the case at issue, in which Carl Calvin Westover was sentenced to 30 years in prison for the armed robbery of two California banks after having confessed his guilt upon questioning by FBI agents.

The right to counsel, the government said, does not apply in that postarrest questioning period before a suspect has been taken before a magistrate or a court. And the mere fact that a man is in police custody — assuming his answers are not forced from him and he is aware that he need not answer at all — cannot be said to violate his privilege against self-incrimination, the government argued.

Skidding Car Strikes Tree On Lisbon St.

A tree and a hedge halted an auto when it skidded out of control early today on Lisbon St., preventing it from crashing into a nearby home, police reported.

Thomas J. Czech, 23, of 7th Ave., LaCroft, escaped unhurt about 3:40 a. m. when his 1960 four-door sedan veered off Lisbon St. near Olnhausen St., hit shrubs and a fence on the property of William Slagger of 1531 Lisbon St. and then veered into a hedge and a tree at the home of Clarence L. Clark of 1525 Lisbon St., officers said.

The car, damaged extensively on the right front, halted on Clark's property, officers said.

Czech told Patrolmen Ronald J. Brookes and J. W. Buckley that he was driving north on Lisbon St. about 35 miles an hour when the car "skidded on something," crossed the street and finally came to a halt.

Brookes discovered the collision while on cruiser patrol. He said Czech had gone home and obtained a 1959 model car with which he was attempting to tow the wrecked 1960 model off the Clark property. The 1960 model car drifted and hit the halted cruiser, causing about $5 damage to a chrome strip on the hood, police said.

The officers charged Czech with driving left of center.

Czech was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty to the charge today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Two cars were involved in a minor collision Thursday at 6:17 p. m. at E. 5th St. and Broadway.

They were a 1965 two-door sedan driven by Okey W. Leaisure, 67, of Chester R. D. 1 and a 1964 four-door sedan operated by Loris E. Bachus of 307 Persimmon Ln., officers said.

Leaisure was turning left off Broadway onto E. 5th and Bachus was turning right onto E. 5th from Broadway, officers reported. There was "very minor" damage to Leaisure's car, police said.

he considered equally important as those he included in his call. But he explained that he omitted them because they had "not yet reached the point of specific clarity for submission to the legislature."

Included in the latter by the chief executive were proposals dealing with a state-related status for the University of Pittsburgh and a comprehensive mental health and mental retardation plan.

"These and other items in like category can be made the subjects of a special session at a later date," Scranton said.

The governor added that he excluded highway beautification and a proposal to give the Human Relations Commission jurisdiction over de facto school segregation because he was informed they would be blocked "in one house or the other."

The highway beautification measure, to make the state eligible for $3 million in federal funds, passed the Democratic House but was killed in the Republican Senate late last year.

The de facto segregation measure failed to be freed from a House committee.

"If there is a change in the status of these matters, they, too, could be considered for inclusion in a subsequent session," Scranton said.

takes up the cases, probably next week.

The government brief went far beyond the case at issue, in which Carl Calvin Westover was sentenced to 30 years in prison for the armed robbery of two California banks after having confessed his guilt upon questioning by FBI agents.

The right to counsel, the government said, does not apply in that postarrest questioning period before a suspect has been taken before a magistrate or a court. And the mere fact that a man is in police custody — assuming his answers are not forced from him and he is aware that he need not answer at all — cannot be said to violate his privilege against self-incrimination, the government argued.

Skidding Car Strikes Tree On Lisbon St.

A tree and a hedge halted an auto when it skidded out of control early today on Lisbon St., preventing it from crashing into a nearby home, police reported.

Thomas J. Czech, 23, of 7th Ave., LaCroft, escaped unhurt about 3:40 a. m. when his 1960 four-door sedan veered off Lisbon St. near Olnhausen St., hit shrubs and a fence on the property of William Slagger of 1531 Lisbon St. and then veered into a hedge and a tree at the home of Clarence L. Clark of 1525 Lisbon St., officers said.

The car, damaged extensively on the right front, halted on Clark's property, officers said.

Czech told Patrolmen Ronald J. Brookes and J. W. Buckley that he was driving north on Lisbon St. about 35 miles an hour when the car "skidded on something," crossed the street and finally came to a halt.

Brookes discovered the collision while on cruiser patrol. He said Czech had gone home and obtained a 1959 model car with which he was attempting to tow the wrecked 1960 model off the Clark property. The 1960 model car drifted and hit the halted cruiser, causing about $5 damage to a chrome strip on the hood, police said.

The officers charged Czech with driving left of center.

Czech was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty to the charge today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Two cars were involved in a minor collision Thursday at 6:17 p. m. at E. 5th St. and Broadway.

Leaisure was turning left off Broadway onto E. 5th and Bachus was turning right onto E. 5th from Broadway, officers reported. There was "very minor" damage to Leaisure's car, police said.

he considered equally important as those he included in his call. But he explained that he omitted them because they had "not yet reached the point of specific clarity for submission to the legislature."

Included in the latter by the chief executive were proposals dealing with a state-related status for the University of Pittsburgh and a comprehensive mental health and mental retardation plan.

"These and other items in like category can be made the subjects of a special session at a later date," Scranton said.

The governor added that he excluded highway beautification and a proposal to give the Human Relations Commission jurisdiction over de facto school segregation because he was informed they would be blocked "in one house or the other."

The highway beautification measure, to make the state eligible for $3 million in federal funds, passed the Democratic House but was killed in the Republican Senate late last year.

The de facto segregation measure failed to be freed from a House committee.

"If there is a change in the status of these matters, they, too, could be considered for inclusion in a subsequent session," Scranton said.

briefing Thursday called it impressive and persuasive.

The $4.8-billion authorization is one of two bills which President Johnson requested Congress to approve to cope with emergencies during the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

The other, authorizing $415 million in economic aid for South Viet Nam, Laos, Thailand and the Dominican Republic, passed the House Thursday by a roll-call 350-27 vote.

The bill merely authorizes the expenditures. Actual funds must be appropriated later. The total includes $275 million to help bolster the economy of South Viet Nam and to rebuild its war-ravaged villages, $7.5 million each for Laos and Thailand, $25 million for the Dominican Republic, and $100 million for the President's contingency fund.

The latter fund is used for unforeseen emergencies.

Republicans tried to spell out that the money should be used in the nations named and sought to reduce and eliminate the extra funds for contingencies. They lost all the fights.

The only amendment approved — it was accepted by the bill's managers — provided that none of the contingency funds may be used to help nations that allow their ships or planes to carry any material into North Viet Nam.

It is similar to a restriction put into the 1965 foreign-aid bill and allows the President to waive it if he reports to Congress that the action is necessary in the national interest.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara returns to Capitol Hill today to resume his support of the $60-billion defense budget at a closed hearing of the Senate Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

And retired Adm. William F. Raborn, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, briefs members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at an executive session.

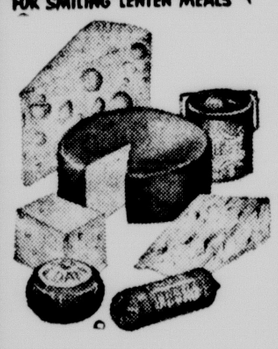

Next Thursday the Foreign Relations Committee will resume its probe of Southeast Asian policy by questioning McNamara — but at a closed session.

Look-A-Likes At Harvard And Yale Swap Places

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Two New York City twins, Joe and Ed McDermott, secretly swapped places at Yale and Harvard because each wanted an inside view of the other's university.

They also wanted to see whether they could stand in for each other without being spotted.

Edward T. McDermott is a Harvard junior and his twin, Joseph P. McDermott is a junior at Yale.

They lived in each other's room, ate in each other's dining hall and attended each other's classes for seven days, and then this week returned to their respective campuses.

Both said the first few days went smoothly, that no one seemed to notice a thing.

Then Joe got a telephone call from a girl at Cambridge whom both he and Ed know, and she asked, "What's wrong with your voice?" Joe said he had a cold but he saw her again the next day.

She said she thought she was being taken in and demanded Joe's identification. Whereupon Joe produced Ed's wallet.

Meanwhile Ed began to have troubles of his own. He said he slipped up and introduced himself to a student at dinner and the student snapped: "I know who you are. I was in your room a few nights ago."

"Oh, yes. Excuse me," Ed said.

Ed said two things that struck him about the Yale campus were its friendliness and its lack of girls.

Joe said neither one had any trouble in classes. There were no exams.

They said they managed to fool many of their fellow students right through the week. Ed said a group of Negro children, with whom Joe does part-time social work in New Haven, was the first to notice the switch.

"Right off they noticed the change in glasses, hair, face and even teeth. I found it very moving because it showed the close relationship Joe has with them," he said

Flowers To Oppose Mrs. Wallace

Governor Race To Settle Long Feud In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) —Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers stood on the brink of the governor's race today, ready to challenge the hardcore segregationist philosophy of Gov. George Wallace.

The declaration of Wallace's wife, Lurleen, as a candidate Thursday and the expected announcement that Flowers will run gave the governor and attorney general a chance to settle their long-standing feud in the May 3 Democratic primary.

Flowers, a self-styled racial moderate, has opposed Wallace's defiance of federal authority.

Another Wallace critic, State Sen. Bob Gilchrist of Hartselle, appeared likely to jump into the already crowded gubernatorial field before the qualifying deadline next Tuesday.

He was one of the senators who blocked the governor's attempt last October to change the law so he could run for re-election, and was an active campaign worker for another candidate, Ryan deGraffenried, who died in a plane crash two weeks ago.

The attractive, honey blonde Mrs. Wallace, 39, became the ninth candidate in the governor's race.

With her husband at her side, she told a cheering throng of followers crowded into the State House of Representatives chamber that she would run as a "stand-in" for Wallace.

She made it clear that if elected, her husband would run the governor's office and decide policy as he does now.

Flowers' chances in the party primary will depend in great measure on how an estimated 200,000 registered Negroes vote. He may have to compete for Negro support with another self-designated moderate candidate, former congressman Carl Elliott.

Former Gov. James E. Folsom, who barely missed the runoff four years ago when he sought a third term, is campaigning again. He, too, may win Negro votes.

Mrs. Wallace, on the other hand, will find another governor, John Patterson, going after the conservative support in a state which voted overwhelmingly for Republican Barry Goldwater in the presidential election two years ago.

Other democratic candidates are A. W. Todd, state agriculture commissioner, who made an unsuccessful race for governor eight years ago, and political newcomers Charles Woods, Sherman Powell, C. Rex Scott and Mrs. Ralph Price.

The winners of the Democratic nomination will be up against spirited Republican opposition in the November general election. The GOP's top vote-getter in Alabama, Rep. James D. Martin of Gadsden, has said he would seek the Republican nomination for governor at the GOP convention in Montgomery in July.

Kiwanians View Film On West Scout Ranch

A colored film about the Philmont Boy Scout Ranch in New Mexico was screened during a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Robert Bernstorf was in charge of the program. The film depicted the history of the ranch and a typical stay of a Scout unit. James Walker, president, was in charge.

Washing eggs before storing destroys their protective film that keeps out odor and air.

Mail Carriers To Be Census Takers In '70

WASHINGTON (AP) — For most Americans the census taker in 1970 could turn out to be the postman.

Andrew F. Brimmer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said a census by mail technique will represent a basic change in the enumerating process for the 1970 nose count.

In a talk prepared for a conference of population and housing census users, Brimmer said most Americans will answer the 1970 census by filling out a form delivered by the postman rather than face an enumerator for a personal interview.

"This system will save money and produce more reliable results," he said. "Some persons may be less inhibited in answering questions if they are merely filling out a form rather than facing an interviewer. After all, sometimes that interviewer is the person who lives next door."

Mrs. Mossler, Nephew Nearing Finish Of Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, neared the end of their first-degree murder trial today as the defense tried to turn a finger of suspicion toward a husky interior decorator.

He is Fred Roy Weissel, 29, who turned up beaten and bloody in the general area about an hour after Jacques Mossler was slain early on June 30, 1964. Interrogated briefly by authorities, Weissel never was treated by them as a suspect in the case. He has not testified in the trial.

A physician Thursday described Weissel as a badly beat up man, with "brush burns" on his body "that could have been caused by any type of outdoor terrain."

"And they could have come from a carpet or any irregular surface," asked Powers' chief defense attorney, Percy Foreman.

"Yes," the doctor replied.

"You couldn't even tell if they came from Governor' Lodge, apartment 2-C, 300 Sunrise Drive?" continued Foreman, alluding to the Key Biscayne apartment where Mossler, 69, was slain.

The physician managed to get in "no" answer as the state objected.

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters said today it has organized a new local union to represent employes of the Rockport Sanitary Pottery Co. in Rockport, Ind.

A manufacturer of vitrified bathroom fixtures, the firm employs about 180, the IBOP said. Prepations are being made for negotiations expected to lead to the signing of the first contract with the company.

The IBOP said the new local was formed under the direction of Harold Hackett, an international representative, with the aid of members of Local 72 in Evansville, Ind.

House Mother Fatally Burned At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Margareath Yuengert, a 67-year-old widow, died in a hospital Thursday of injuries suffered seven hours earlier in a fire that destroyed the Sigma Nu fraternity house at Pennsylvania State University.

Mrs. Yuengert, the house mother, suffered burns and smoke inhalation.

Lewis M. Powell, 21, a senior from Temple Hills, Md., was hurt when he jumped from a third floor window. He was hospitalized at the campus health center.

Another student, Bryan A. Circosta, 19, a sophomore from Washington, D.C., jumped from a second floor window, but did not require medical attention.

University officials said the fire apparently broke out in a basement storage room.

Sigma Nu had occupied the three-story brick structure since 1925.

More Drive Chairmen Named For 'Scholars'

Mrs. John W. Hopper will serve as chairman for the March 6 house-to-house solicitation on behalf of the Dollars for Scholars campaign in the East Liverpool area.

The announcement was made by Robert Lewis, a trustee for the organization.

Mrs. Hopper, who resides on 7th Ave., LaCroft, has been active in many civic projects. She is an employe of Hills at the St. Clair Plaza.

General solicitations will follow the house-to-house appeal.

LEWIS ALSO announced the following additional chairmen who will serve during the March drive.

Wayne Conners of 340 Clayborne St., retail chairman. He is an employe of Montgomery Ward & Co.

John Parsons of 3053 Curry St., public service chairman. He is associated with the Parsons Coal Co.

Mrs. Rebecca Turk of Thompson Ave., service club chairman. Mrs. Turk was president of Dollars for Scholars in 1965, being succeeded this year by William R. Webber of 3124 Gilson Ave.

Charles B. Lang of 244 Ravine St., professional chairman. Lang, an attorney, also is currently president of the Columbiana County Heart Fund and secretary of the East Liverpool Jaycees.

ORGANIZATIONAL plans will be completed and receipt forms and identifying arm bands issued to the house-to-house solicitors during a meeting of all trustees, officers and drive chairmen in The Review building Sunday at 2 p. m.

Persons wishing to assist in the campaign are invited to attend the meeting, Jackman S. Vodrey, vice president, said.

Letters have been sent to all students who received assistance from Dollars for Scholars for the 1965-66 school year, requesting their help in the house-to-house and general solicitation.

Mrs. Hopper points out that $871.65 was raised in the house-to-house drive in East Liverpool last year, a new record, but said she is hopeful that it will be possible to surpass this amount this March since the foundation is now in its fourth year and local residents are becoming more familiar with the organization's operations and goals.

Last year over $21,000 was distributed to 70 scholarship recipients, with 33 of the scholarships being awarded in the East Liverpool area. One of the recipients was Rebecca Sue Hopper, who received the S.P.E.B.-S.Q.S.A. scholarship to study education at Ohio State University. She is the daughter of Mrs. Hopper, the house - to - house chairman.

Ralph Finley is East Liverpool's other representatives on the Board of Trustees.

Computers Will Help Make Laws In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Computers are going to help make Ohio laws.

The Legislative Service Commission, fact finding arm of the General Assembly, is putting finishing touches on a computerized research system covering Ohio's voluminous code of laws. This will help law-makers find out what the laws say now on a subject, so they can decide if they need changing—and how they need changing.

Commission Director David Johnson says the new system will speed up tedious legal research, make it more accurate and help members of the legislature in their law-making.

The attorney generl's office has no plans now to adapt the computer operation to its researching when it's asked for opinions on state laws. But conceivably the computer system could help that office—or any state agency which wants to know exactly what the law is on a given subject.

It cost $45,000 to have the Ohio code covering 19,000 sections on three 12-inch reels of tape, each 2,400 feet long.

The tapes make it possible for the commission to receive in minutes the specific information on Ohio laws that now takes hours, sometimes days, to ferret out.

The computer, located at the state data processing center, won't provide for instant laws but it will help to provide better laws by supplying researchers and legislators with complete and accurate information, Johnson said.

Computers Will Help Make Laws In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Computers are going to help make Ohio laws.

The Legislative Service Commission, fact finding arm of the General Assembly, is putting finishing touches on a computerized research system covering Ohio's voluminous code of laws. This will help law-makers find out what the laws say now on a subject, so they can decide if they need changing—and how they need changing.

Commission Director David Johnson says the new system will speed up tedious legal research, make it more accurate and help members of the legislature in their law-making.

The attorney generl's office has no plans now to adapt the computer operation to its researching when it's asked for opinions on state laws. But conceivably the computer system could help that office—or any state agency which wants to know exactly what the law is on a given subject.

It cost $45,000 to have the Ohio code covering 19,000 sections on three 12-inch reels of tape, each 2,400 feet long.

The tapes make it possible for the commission to receive in minutes the specific information on Ohio laws that now takes hours, sometimes days, to ferret out.

The computer, located at the state data processing center, won't provide for instant laws but it will help to provide better laws by supplying researchers and legislators with complete and accurate information, Johnson said.

Mrs. Florence Cook Awaits Move

Old Tradition Approaches End For Shippingport's Post Office

By JOHN COMO

With the opening of a modern, one - story Post Office at Shippingport sometime in March, a longtime family tradition will end for Mrs. Florence Cook whose family has housed the postal facility almost consistently since 1893.

Mrs. Cook, postmaster in whose home the mail service has been located for 25 years, reports the move to the new structure will be only the fourth since her uncle was postmaster 73 years ago.

Except for a period of nine years, her family has had the post office in their homes since then.

William J. Hanley, Mrs. Cook's uncle, became postmaster in 1893 and served until 1897, when Elmer Arbuckle took over the post.

—:—

ARBUCKLE SERVED until February 1906 and was replaced by John Hayward until October of the same year.

Hanley then returned as postmaster and when he died in 1918, his wife, Catherine Hanley, took over his duties of distributing the mail.

Since Mrs. Hanley took the office, mail for Shippingport area residents has been in the hands of women. Mrs. Hanley served for 22 years before retiring in 1940.

Keeping the family postal tradition intact, Mrs. Cook, also a widower, took responsibility for distributing the mail. It has been in her hands for nearly 26 years with the anniversary due in May.

Mrs. Cook said when her uncle took office in 1893, the facility was located in a building across the road from the present office at the Shippingport Ferry landing. After the building burned in 1903, the

Because the Hanley Store was on the bank of the Ohio River and often in danger of flood waters, he purchased another building on higher ground on the east side of the road leading to the ferry landing.

He moved his store and post office facilities into the build- office was relocated in the Arbuckle Store, where it stayed until 1906.

—:—

BY 1906, HANLEY had built a store of his own, and when he returned to office, he moved the facilities into his own store.

ing and where it has remianed until today.

The present office is in a closed - in porch, and although cramped for space, it is within easy access for Mrs. Cook.

A glass front divided into mail box slots rests on a wood partition that extends halfway up the walls of the porch. A small window is centered in the glass front, through which Mrs. Cook distributes mail and conducts other postal duties from her small office.

Mrs. Cook states she is happy the new building will be opened soon. "I am looking forward to working there, and it is something the community has needed for a long time."

—:—

"SINCE THE construction of the atomic plant here, Shippingport has received a lot of attention. The modern facilities provided by the new building will give the community a better image," she continued.

"With the closing of the Shippingport Ferry, the office has lost a lot of revenue from money orders and stamps. The traffic isn't as great here, and I believe that in the new location, along Route 168 revenue will pick up again," she said.

As a public servant for 25 years, Mrs. Cook has had many experiences in her personal touch with the people of the community and its history.

"Two of the best things that have happened for the community has been the construction of the atomic plant and the Shippingport Bridge. A lot of the historical data provided for the plant contractors and planners when they were considering the location was taken from the records kept here at the post office," she said.

The most tragic thing which has happened was the 1963 tow boat - ferry collision which claimed two men. "That ultimately led to the closing of the ferry, although it was no longer needed when the bridge was completed."

MRS. COOK refers with pride to the opportunities for travel she has been given by the Federal and State Post Office Systems.

"I have seen many places I would never have been able to, thanks to my job. I have attended nearly all of the State and National Conventions and have traveled coast to coast attending conventions in Boston and Los Angeles.

"This year I am looking forward to the National Convention at Louisville, Ky.," she said.

"I have been able to meet many people who have the same interests in their work as me. This has helped to keep my life a full and happy one."

Mrs. Cook has enjoyed her contact with the people of the community over the years.

She is currently having a friendly feud — "the kind of feud many women would be happy to have," she said with a smile.

One day last winter her nephew, Jimmy Graham, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Graham, saw her shoveling snow off the walk in front of the post office. "He told me, I shouldn't shovel the snow and that he would do it for me."

"Since then, every time it snows, he comes early for his school bus and shovels the walk and puts feed out for the birds in the shelter I had built."

"I have tried to pay him for the work, but he refuses every offer. I thought I had him stumped when I sent him a Valentine card with a dollar in it and signed the card, 'Guess Who?'.

Jimmy caught on to the trick, however, when he recognized her handwriting. Mrs. Cook received a Valentine card Monday with a dollar in it and five candy hearts. It was signed, "Jimmy; I know who."

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Conformity Sometimes Halts Creativity

A parent doesn't need to be a psychologist, a college graduate, or even have a high school diploma to encourage the curiosity and creation in a little child from two to six, or of an older child. Indeed, all this parent needs to do is to treat this little youngster as the precious person he really is. What can be more delightful to any parent than to watch a little child develop as he tries to learn about the great big world about him; as he explores and tries to find out more and more to satisfy his "insatiable curiosity"; as he explores things in his own way and never ceases to ask questions? He begins to develop as soon as he can gesture, grunt or talk.

Dr. Garry Myers

HOW HAPPY a child is when his parents never tire of answering his questions as well as they are able and explaining things to him. Before he is two or three he takes flight on the wings of his imagination. He goes on creating till his parents and other persons at home, and perhaps his teacher later, at school, make him suppose he shouldn't do or say such things.

A child can breathe human life into the barest stick, or block, or speck and have it act and be anything he wishes it to be. A plain clothespin or rag doll may serve as real creatures to a little child. He can put together simplest objects for his purposes. He can serve imaginary tea or real or imaginary plates or carry on the pantomime without any visible materials. One or two blocks or other objects which he puts together may be a bridge, garage or house, no matter how unlike real things they appear to us to be.

He can hear and see things not present to his senses or to ours. He can talk to persons we can't see or hear and have them talk back to him. How wonderful it is when we, his parents, keep wishing that we could create as he does and enjoy the richness of his imagination.

IF WE watch and wait long enough and patiently enough, we may also share a bit in the secrets of his creations.

In the small child's first adventure with a crayon or pencil he may crudely scribble and tell us what he has made. How long we have to practice to see all he sees. But as he keeps on scribbling, drawing, painting, we may be able, if we wait and watch, to guess what he has made. Our trouble is that, with our cold, hard ways of looking for realities, we may be blind and deaf to what he sees and hears.

How tragic for this little child when we let him know how dull we are, by making fun of his creations or telling him he should not do such foolish things, or even as we feel no more warmth or excitement over his creations than if we were just a wooden post.

How delightful it may be to us parents when we read to the small child as soon as he will listen, and sense his happiness as he imagines around what he hears. How much more delightful when he begins to weave stories of his own out of his little head or when he pretends he is a dog or other pet and wants us to treat him as such.

WE ARE good parents of his when we keep wishing we might have the gift of his imagination and create as he does. What better way for us to give him genuine love.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Conformity Sometimes Halts Creativity

A parent doesn't need to be a psychologist, a college graduate, or even have a high school diploma to encourage the curiosity and creation in a little child from two to six, or of an older child. Indeed, all this parent needs to do is to treat this little youngster as the precious person he really is. What can be more delightful to any parent than to watch a little child develop as he tries to learn about the great big world about him; as he explores and tries to find out more and more to satisfy his "insatiable curiosity"; as he explores things in his own way and never ceases to ask questions? He begins to develop as soon as he can gesture, grunt or talk.

Dr. Garry Myers

HOW HAPPY a child is when his parents never tire of answering his questions as well as they are able and explaining things to him. Before he is two or three he takes flight on the wings of his imagination. He goes on creating till his parents and other persons at home, and perhaps his teacher later, at school, make him suppose he shouldn't do or say such things.

A child can breathe human life into the barest stick, or block, or speck and have it act and be anything he wishes it to be. A plain clothespin or rag doll may serve as real creatures to a little child. He can put together simplest objects for his purposes. He can serve imaginary tea or real or imaginary plates or carry on the pantomime without any visible materials. One or two blocks or other objects which he puts together may be a bridge, garage or house, no matter how unlike real things they appear to us to be.

He can hear and see things not present to his senses or to ours. He can talk to persons we can't see or hear and have them talk back to him. How wonderful it is when we, his parents, keep wishing that we could create as he does and enjoy the richness of his imagination.

IF WE watch and wait long enough and patiently enough, we may also share a bit in the secrets of his creations.

In the small child's first adventure with a crayon or pencil he may crudely scribble and tell us what he has made. How long we have to practice to see all he sees. But as he keeps on scribbling, drawing, painting, we may be able, if we wait and watch, to guess what he has made. Our trouble is that, with our cold, hard ways of looking for realities, we may be blind and deaf to what he sees and hears.

How tragic for this little child when we let him know how dull we are, by making fun of his creations or telling him he should not do such foolish things, or even as we feel no more warmth or excitement over his creations than if we were just a wooden post.

Davidson Fears Richmond; WVU Captures Opener

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Can the Davidson Wildcats storm their psychological mountain against Richmond tonight in the semifinals of the Southern Conference championship basketball tourney?

"I think we'll find a way," said Lefty Driesell, Davidson coach who has bitter memories of the last two years when the favored Wildcats were eliminated in the 1964 and 1965 semifinals.

The top-seeded Wildcats, who have never won the conference championship, gained the semis with a 79-61 victory over The Citadel in Thursday night's first round at Charlotte, N.C., paced by Dick Snyder's 24 points.

Richmond advanced by edging East Carolina 76-74 on Tom Green's goal in the last three seconds. West Virginia downed Virginia Military 95-80 and William and Mary defeated Furman 78-73 in the other first-round games. West Virginia plays W&M in the other semi tonight.

The opening of the Southern title tourney highlighted a busy night in the college sport.

Unbeaten Texas Western, third-ranked in The Associated Press poll, rolled to its 21st straight, a 78-64 road triumph over West Texas. Chicago Loyola, No. 4, thumped North Central, Ill., at home 112-49.

The Dayton Flyers snapped the 14-game winning streak of the Houston Cougars 71-69 in the opener of a doubleheader in New York's Madison Square Garden. And North Texas, which won five of its first six games, lost its 17th straight, 102-91 to Bradley at Peoria, Ill.

Johnny Moates scored 26 points for Richmond while Carl Head had 27 for West Virginia in the Southern tourney where the Mountaineers' Ron Williams set a tourney record by handing out 10 assists.

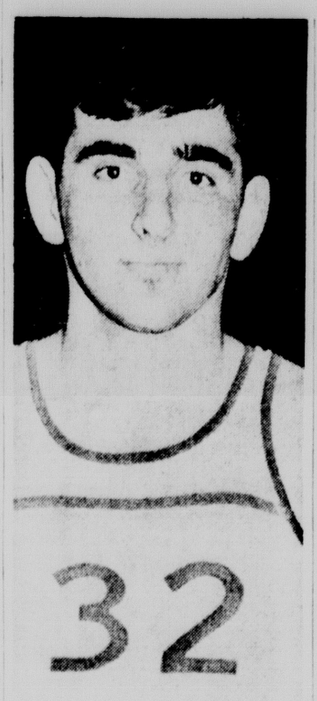

Texas Western and Chicago Loyola, each in the NCAA tourney, had little trouble, although the Miners did trail West Texas at one point by 35-34. David Lattin's 22 points led the winners, 15 of them in the second half as the Miners pulled away. Coach George Ireland substituted freely against North Central as Loyola tuned up for the NCAA.

Sophomore Don May's 27 points, including four in the last 31 seconds, led Dayton over Houston in a battle between two of the country's top independents already tapped for the NCAA tourney.

Eddie Jakson's 35 points led Bradley over North Texas while Rubin Russell got 37 for the losing Eagles. Westley Unseld's 24 points led Louisville to a 79-70 home-court victory over Drake.

Potters Gun For Winning (10-8) Season

Face High-Scoring Bellaire Saturday

CHUCK WINTERS
In Last MA Appearance.

There is more at stake now than there was back on Jan. 22 when East Liverpool originally was to meet Bellaire, but the biggest snowstorm of the winter forced the game to be postponed.

At that time the Potters were a losing team laboring with a 4-7 record. Bellaire probably would have been better off meeting the Potters last month because, during that time, East Liverpool has jelled into a winning combination.

—:—

AT STAKE Saturday night when Bellaire invades Memorial Auditorium will be a winning season for the Potters and a victory streak to protect.

Coach Frank Chan's club goes after its 10th victory and sixth straight as the curtain falls on the regular season schedule.

Saturday's contest also will serve as a tune up for East Liverpool's Sectional Tournament opener Tuesday against Wellsville at the Steubenville Community Arena.

Two Potter seniors will make their final appearance at Memorial Auditorium Saturday night. They are co-captains Chuck Winters and Jim Jones. The remainder of the young Potter squad are juniors or sophomores.

CHAN announced that Earl Diddle, a 5-10 sophomore, would probably start against Bellaire. Diddle has been edging his way toward a starting spot in recent games and played most of the Weirton contest last week. He is considered a good passer and shooter.

Diddle will be replacing Denny Smith, a 5-9 junior, who has started most of the contests this season at a guard spot.

Rounding out the starting lineup will be leading scorer Vern Smith and Darryl Herring.

SINCE Bellaire was scheduled to meet the Potters, the Big Red has won three games while losing five and now shows an overall 6-11 record.

Bellaire can be dangerous and its record means nothing. In three games this season Coach Clair Cribbs team has hit over 100 points and Bellaire has the second leading scorer in the Ohio Valley in Mike Sherwood who is pitching in points at a rate of 26.5 per game.

—:—

SHERWOOD has maintained that average in the last eight games and his high for the season was 38 against Moundsville. He has 452 points for 17 games.

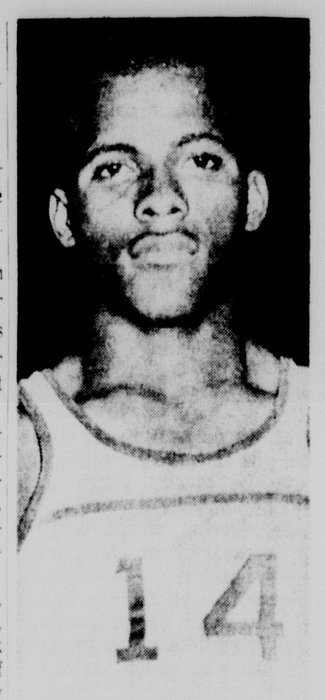

While Bellaire shows a high scoring club and has eclipsed the 100 mark three times, opponents of the Big Red have hit over 100 in defeating them.

—:—

BELLAIRE can't be taken lightly away from home after winning its last two road games with a 103-81 victory at River Local and a 93-89 decision at Follansbee.

Some of Bellaire's recent losses were to Martins Ferry (73-68) a team the Potters defeated, and to Bridgeport (101-72), which won the United Press International basketball poll, announced earlier this week.

In addition to Sherwood, Cribbs will start Mike Cooper, a 6-3 senior, who has won back a starting position recently, Jeff Schleicher, 5-10 senior, Tony Tiehowicz, 6-5 center, and Rich Gianangeli, a 5-11 junior who joined the team at mid-season and won a starting job.

JIM JONES
Potter Senior In Finale.

Yankee Camp Bright With Mick On Way

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Rain clouds linger over the New York Yankees' spring camp but there's sunshine in the clubhouse today.

Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' magnificent cripple, has moved up his homecoming date and reportedly is mending fast from the fifth operation of his 15-year major league career.

Mantle, recovering from surgery on his right shoulder Jan. 25, told New York General Manager Ralph Houk Thursday he will report to camp next Tuesday, five days earlier than originally announced. Houk telephoned Mantle at his Dallas home, where he has been resting since his release from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., earlier in the week.

The switch-hitting veteran had a bone chip removed from his shoulder, which he injured last winter in a touch football game.

"The doctors at Mayo have assured me the surgery and his recuperation are successful," Houk said. "I believe he'll look much better than last year. And you know how bad he looked then."

Mantle batted .255 in 1965 with 19 home runs and 46 RBI.

Ivy League Wins Fight With NCAA

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Faced with the very real threat of losing the prestigious Ivy League schools, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has resolved its battle over athletic eligibility requirements but the war is far from over.

The NCAA backed down Thursday on its demand that member schools agree to a minimum scholastic average for athletes before their teams could be eligible for national championships.

Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University and head of the Ivy Group Policy Committee, said each of the eight Ivy League schools would write the NCAA a letter outlining its academic standards, well within the NCAA framework.

Everett D. Barnes of Colgate University, president of the NCAA, said this would be sufficient.

The Associated Press learned that Goheen had asked his fellow Ivy League presidents last week for agreement on a "willingness to withdraw our institutions from the NCAA" if a satisfactory solution were not reached.

The dispute arose over an NCAA ruling — voted for by a majority of its members — that no NCAA member could give financial aid to an athlete unless his academic average were at least 1.6 on a scale using 4.0 as 100 per cent.

The agreement is a temporary one, at best, and the entire matter seems certain to come up again at the next NCAA convention in January 1967.

The Ivy League schools are Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Yale. Penn, Columbia, Cornell and Princeton still are in the race for the basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA tournament. The Ivy champion might have had to forego the tournament had the dispute not been resolved.

Approximately 100 members did not comply with the NCAA demand to accept the 1.6 legislation. Most of them also belong to the Eastern College Athletic Conference, whose members give no athletic scholarships but award financial assistance solely on the basis of need.

Those objecting to the 1.6 legislation did so for one of two reasons. They either felt, as the Ivy League did, that academic eligibility should rest with the individual institutions and not with the NCAA, or they thought the 1.6 minimum was too low. Many schools require a higher average for athletic participation.

Indians Open Spring Camp In Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians open their spring training season today on a vote of confidence from General Manager Gabe Paul and caution from Manager Birdie Tebbetts.

"We can win the pennant and we can do it with only normal performances," Paul said. "We don't need a super season from any of our players to win . . . just normal effort."

Tebbetts admits the Tribe is a contender, but points out that five other American League clubs have just as much chance as the Indians. "We need a major contribution from (third baseman) Max Alvis," Tebbetts said.

Regarding the pitching staff, Paul said "Our pitching is such that we're not dependent on one or two guys, with the exception of Sam McDowell and Sonny Siebert. We've got enough depth to get the job done even if a couple of our veterans don't come through the way we hope."

Paul said the Tribe's pitchers are "as good as any team and much better than most, with or without a comeback by Jack Kralick. If he can't do it, we have other guys who can."

Kralick, a 12-game winner in 1964, suffered elbow trouble last summer.

St. Joseph's May Turn Down Bid From NCAA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bill Stetson, chairman of the Middle Atlantic Conference, says if St. Joseph's College rejects a bid to play in the NCAA basketball tournament, a second team will probably be chosen to represent the conference.

Stetson said Thursday "The Middle Atlantic Conference has an automatic qualifying spot in the tourney, and if for some reason St. Joseph's can't go, I assume we will choose another team."

St. Joseph's College was named Thursday as the conference's representative to the NCAA tournament. But there was some doubt about the school's acceptance.

Coach Jack Ramsay said college officials were uncertain about allowing the team to participate because of the unusual number of days that would be missed from classes.

The Hawks, ranked No. 7 nationally, would have to travel to Blacksburg, Va., for the first round of the eastern regionals. Then, if still in competition, they would travel to Charlotte, N.C., for a second round game.

In the past when St. Joseph's participated in the NCAA tournament, its first round game was always played in Philadelphia. However a new ruling says that local teams selected for the NCAA, cannot play on a home court, such as the Palestra in Philadelphia.

If Penn wins the Ivy League, it would also have to play its first-round game at Blacksburg.

St. Joseph's was eliminated in the Eastern Regional semifinals of the NCAA tournament last season.

Cincy's Top RBI Man Seeks Raise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Third baseman Deron Johnson, who led the National League in runs batted in last year, has joined pitcher Jim Maloney in a demand for more money from the Cincinnati Reds.

Phil Seghi, Reds' assistant general manager, said Thursday night he had talked to Johnson and he indicated he wants "considerably" more than what the club is offering.

Maloney became an official holdout Thursday when he failed to report to the spring training camp. Also holding out is substitute catcher Jim Coker. Maloney reportedly wants $60,000 and Johnson $30,000, double their 1965 salaries.

Meanwhile, the Reds' new manager, Don Heffner, outlawed poker games among the players on road trips.

"I understand that some of the boys lost as much as $300 on plane trips to the west coast last season," Heffner said.

Leetonia Bows Out, 62-48

STRUTHERS — Leetonia kept pace for three quarters but faltered in the fourth period in dropping a 62-48 verdict to Western Reserve in the Class A Sectional tournament here Thursday night.

Davidson Fears Richmond; WVU Captures Opener

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Can the Davidson Wildcats storm their psychological mountain against Richmond tonight in the semifinals of the Southern Conference championship basketball tourney?

"I think we'll find a way," said Lefty Driesell, Davidson coach who has bitter memories of the last two years when the favored Wildcats were eliminated in the 1964 and 1965 semifinals.

The top-seeded Wildcats, who have never won the conference championship, gained the semis with a 79-61 victory over The Citadel in Thursday night's first round at Charlotte, N.C., paced by Dick Snyder's 24 points.

Richmond advanced by edging East Carolina 76-74 on Tom Green's goal in the last three seconds. West Virginia downed Virginia Military 95-80 and William and Mary defeated Furman 78-73 in the other first-round games. West Virginia plays W&M in the other semi tonight.

The opening of the Southern title tourney highlighted a busy night in the college sport.

Unbeaten Texas Western, third-ranked in The Associated Press poll, rolled to its 21st straight, a 78-64 road triumph over West Texas. Chicago Loyola, No. 4, thumped North Central, Ill., at home 112-49.

The Dayton Flyers snapped the 14-game winning streak of the Houston Cougars 71-69 in the opener of a doubleheader in New York's Madison Square Garden. And North Texas, which won five of its first six games, lost its 17th straight, 102-91 to Bradley at Peoria, Ill.

Johnny Moates scored 26 points for Richmond while Carl Head had 27 for West Virginia in the Southern tourney where the Mountaineers' Ron Williams set a tourney record by handing out 10 assists.

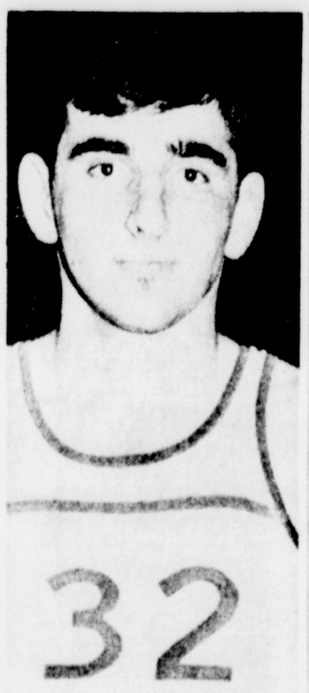

Texas Western and Chicago Loyola, each in the NCAA tourney, had little trouble, although the Miners did trail West Texas at one point by 35-34. David Lattin's 22 points led the winners, 15 of them in the second half as the Miners pulled away. Coach George Ireland substituted freely against North Central as Loyola tuned up for the NCAA.

Sophomore Don May's 27 points, including four in the last 31 seconds, led Dayton over Houston in a battle between two of the country's top independents already tapped for the NCAA tourney.

Eddie Jakson's 35 points led Bradley over North Texas while Rubin Russell got 37 for the losing Eagles. Westley Unseld's 24 points led Louisville to a 79-70 home-court victory over Drake.

Potters Gun For Winning (10-8) Season

Face High-Scoring Bellaire Saturday

CHUCK WINTERS
In Last MA Appearance.

There is more at stake now than there was back on Jan. 22 when East Liverpool originally was to meet Bellaire, but the biggest snowstorm of the winter forced the game to be postponed.

At that time the Potters were a losing team laboring with a 4-7 record. Bellaire probably would have been better off meeting the Potters last month because, during that time, East Liverpool has jelled into a winning combination.

—:—

AT STAKE Saturday night when Bellaire invades Memorial Auditorium will be a winning season for the Potters and a victory streak to protect.

Coach Frank Chan's club goes after its 10th victory and sixth straight as the curtain falls on the regular season schedule.

Saturday's contest also will serve as a tune up for East Liverpool's Sectional Tournament opener Tuesday against Wellsville at the Steubenville Community Arena.

Two Potter seniors will make their final appearance at Memorial Auditorium Saturday night. They are co-captains Chuck Winters and Jim Jones. The remainder of the young Potter squad are juniors or sophomores.

CHAN announced that Earl Diddle, a 5-10 sophomore, would probably start against Bellaire. Diddle has been edging his way toward a starting spot in recent games and played most of the Weirton contest last week. He is considered a good passer and shooter.

Diddle will be replacing Denny Smith, a 5-9 junior, who has started most of the contests this season at a guard spot.

Rounding out the starting lineup will be leading scorer Vern Smith and Darryl Herring.

SINCE Bellaire was scheduled to meet the Potters, the Big Red has won three games while losing five and now shows an overall 6-11 record.

Bellaire can be dangerous and its record means nothing. In three games this season Coach Clair Cribbs team has hit over 100 points and Bellaire has the second leading scorer in the Ohio Valley in Mike Sherwood who is pitching in points at a rate of 26.5 per game.

—:—

SHERWOOD has maintained that average in the last eight games and his high for the season was 38 against Moundsville. He has 452 points for 17 games.

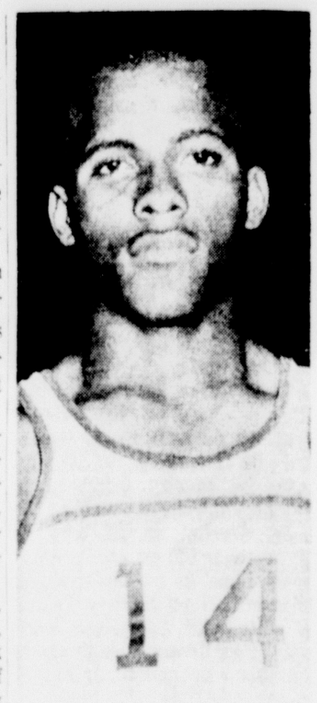

While Bellaire shows a high scoring club and has eclipsed the 100 mark three times, opponents of the Big Red have hit over 100 in defeating them.

—:—

BELLAIRE can't be taken lightly away from home after winning its last two road games with a 103-81 victory at River Local and a 93-89 decision at Follansbee.

Some of Bellaire's recent losses were to Martins Ferry (73-68) a team the Potters defeated, and to Bridgeport (101-72), which won the United Press International basketball poll, announced earlier this week.

In addition to Sherwood, Cribbs will start Mike Cooper, a 6-3 senior, who has won back a starting position recently, Jeff Schleicher, 5-10 senior, Tony Tiehowicz, 6-5 center, and Rich Gianangeli, a 5-11 junior who joined the team at mid-season and won a starting job.

JIM JONES
Potter Senior In Finale.

Waterford Expects 8,000 For Opening

Post Time 2; 10 Races Set For Saturday

Waterford Park is expecting a crowd of 8,000 fans when the 1966 racing season opens Saturday afternoon at the Hancock County plant.

They'll be off and running at 2 p. m. with a 10-race card scheduled for the opener.

Feature of the opening day is the $2,500 Inaugural, a five furlong allowance race for the top sprinters quartered at Waterford Park.

The secondary feature will be the "Hello To Springtime Purse" and three pretty coeds who attend school in Pittsburgh will be in the winners circle to present a trophy to the owner of the winning horse.

Waterford will continue daylight racing until March 26. Night racing will take over with a 7:15 post on March 28.

Nine races will be staged daily with ten on Saturdays with the usual twin bills set for Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day. The track will be dark on Good Friday, April 8.

Harry Bell, who has assumed the role of general manager and racing secretary reports that every available stall has been alloted and all indications point to the biggest racing year at Waterford Park.

A steady stream of vans have been pouring in from New England, Nebraska, Illinois, Texas, Oklahoma, California, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Canada and Arizona.

Dick Farmer Nets 23; N. Lima Next Foe

STRUTHERS — Second-seeded United Local ran into little difficulty in posting a 56-43 victory in its first Class A Sectional Tournament start here Thursday night over Jackson-Milton.

The victory moved Coach Jack Mills' squad into a Tuesday night game with North Lima. Tuesday's game will start at 9. United already holds a victory over North Lima in regular season play.

Dick Farmer canned 23 points to pace United which entered the tournament sporting a 13-5 record.

The Eagles scored 14 points in each period last night holding a 14-8 first period edge then extending that to 28-16 at halftime.

United hit 37 per cent from the floor on 22 of 59 while Jackson was off the mark with 16 of 65 for 25 per cent. Ross Williams topped the losers with a 23-point effort.

Tom Coffee added 10 points for United.

Yankee Camp Bright With Mick On Way

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Rain clouds linger over the New York Yankees' spring camp but there's sunshine in the clubhouse today.

Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' magnificent cripple, has moved up his homecoming date and reportedly is mending fast from the fifth operation of his 15-year major league career.

Mantle, recovering from surgery on his right shoulder Jan. 25, told New York General Manager Ralph Houk Thursday he will report to camp next Tuesday, five days earlier than originally announced. Houk telephoned Mantle at his Dallas home, where he has been resting since his release from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., earlier in the week.

The switch-hitting veteran had a bone chip removed from his shoulder, which he injured last winter in a touch football game.

"The doctors at Mayo have assured me the surgery and his recuperation are successful," Houk said. "I believe he'll look much better than last year. And you know how bad he looked then."

Mantle batted .255 in 1965 with 19 home runs and 46 RBI.

PRETTY VISITOR—Harry Bell, general manager of Waterford Park and a busy man just before the opening of the one-mile track's 80-day Spring race meet Saturday afternoon, is visited in his office by Wanda Brandon. She is the queen of the spring Waterford meet and hails from Slippery Rock, Pa. She was selected for her beauty and because she can ride horses—even race horses. She has won numerous ribbons in horse shows in the Tri-State area. Ten races will be run at Waterford Saturday afternoon including the $2,500 Inaugural. Post time is 2 p. m.

Ivy League Wins Fight With NCAA

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Faced with the very real threat of losing the prestigious Ivy League schools, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has resolved its battle over athletic eligibility requirements but the war is far from over.

The NCAA backed down Thursday on its demand that member schools agree to a minimum scholastic average for athletes before their teams could be eligible for national championships.

Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University and head of the Ivy Group Policy Committee, said each of the eight Ivy League schools would write the NCAA a letter outlining its academic standards, well within the NCAA framework.

Everett D. Barnes of Colgate University, president of the NCAA, said this would be sufficient.

The Associated Press learned that Goheen had asked his fellow Ivy League presidents last week for agreement on a "willingness to withdraw our institutions from the NCAA" if a satisfactory solution were not reached.

The dispute arose over an NCAA ruling — voted for by a majority of its members — that no NCAA member could give financial aid to an athlete unless his academic average were at least 1.6 on a scale using 4.0 as 100 per cent.

The agreement is a temporary one, at best, and the entire matter seems certain to come up again at the next NCAA convention in January 1967.

The Ivy League schools are Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Yale. Penn, Columbia, Cornell and Princeton still are in the race for the basketball championship and a berth in the NCAA tournament. The Ivy champion might have had to forego the tournament had the dispute not been resolved.

Approximately 100 members did not comply with the NCAA demand to accept the 1.6 legislation. Most of them also belong to the Eastern College Athletic Conference, whose members give no athletic scholarships but award financial assistance solely on the basis of need.

Those objecting to the 1.6 legislation did so for one of two reasons. They either felt, as the Ivy League did, that academic eligibility should rest with the individual institutions and not with the NCAA, or they thought the 1.6 minimum was too low. Many schools require a higher average for athletic participation.

Indians Open Spring Camp In Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians open their spring training season today on a vote of confidence from General Manager Gabe Paul and caution from Manager Birdie Tebbetts.

"We can win the pennant and we can do it with only normal performances," Paul said. "We don't need a super season from any of our players to win . . . just normal effort."

Tebbetts admits the Tribe is a contender, but points out that five other American League clubs have just as much chance as the Indians. "We need a major contribution from (third baseman) Max Alvis," Tebbetts said.

Regarding the pitching staff, Paul said "Our pitching is such that we're not dependent on one or two guys, with the exception of Sam McDowell and Sonny Siebert. We've got enough depth to get the job done even if a couple of our veterans don't come through the way we hope."

Paul said the Tribe's pitchers are "as good as any team and much better than most, with or without a comeback by Jack Kralick. If he can't do it, we have other guys who can."

Kralick, a 12-game winner in 1964, suffered elbow trouble last summer.

St. Joseph's May Turn Down Bid From NCAA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bill Stetson, chairman of the Middle Atlantic Conference, says if St. Joseph's College rejects a bid to play in the NCAA basketball tournament, a second team will probably be chosen to represent the conference.

Stetson said Thursday "The Middle Atlantic Conference has an automatic qualifying spot in the tourney, and if for some reason St. Joseph's can't go, I assume we will choose another team."

St. Joseph's College was named Thursday as the conference's representative to the NCAA tournament. But there was some doubt about the school's acceptance.

Coach Jack Ramsay said college officials were uncertain about allowing the team to participate because of the unusual number of days that would be missed from classes.

The Hawks, ranked No. 7 nationally, would have to travel to Blacksburg, Va., for the first round of the eastern regionals. Then, if still in competition, they would travel to Charlotte, N.C., for a second round game.

In the past when St. Joseph's participated in the NCAA tournament, its first round game was always played in Philadelphia. However a new ruling says that local teams selected for the NCAA, cannot play on a home court, such as the Palestra in Philadelphia.

If Penn wins the Ivy League, it would also have to play its first-round game at Blacksburg.

St. Joseph's was eliminated in the Eastern Regional semifinals of the NCAA tournament last season.

Cincy's Top RBI Man Seeks Raise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Third baseman Deron Johnson, who led the National League in runs batted in last year, has joined pitcher Jim Maloney in a demand for more money from the Cincinnati Reds.

Phil Seghi, Reds' assistant general manager, said Thursday night he had talked to Johnson and he indicated he wants "considerably" more than what the club is offering.

Maloney became an official holdout Thursday when he failed to report to the spring training camp. Also holding out is substitute catcher Jim Coker. Maloney reportedly wants $60,000 and Johnson $30,000, double their 1965 salaries.

Meanwhile, the Reds' new manager, Don Heffner, outlawed poker games among the players on road trips.

"I understand that some of the boys lost as much as $300 on plane trips to the west coast last season," Heffner said.

Western Reserve Advances

Leetonia Bows Out, 62-48

STRUTHERS — Leetonia kept pace for three quarters but faltered in the fourth period in dropping a 62-48 verdict to Western Reserve in the Class A Sectional tournament here Thursday night.

Leetonia only trailed 25-23 at halftime and was still in reach after three periods 39-34. Leetonia lost its top scorer Dave Conrad and later Jim Rance on fouls and Western Reserve went on to outscore the Bears, 23-14 in the final eight minutes.

Western, which took a 12-6 record into the tourney, fired at a good 49 per cent while Leetonia hit 40 per cent.

Conrad led Leetonia in a losing cause with 15 points. Western had three starters in the double figures with Scott Woolman's 15 leading the way.

Western Reserve now meets Columbiana Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Dodgers, Star Hurlers Far Apart, Bavasi Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale said, "Hey, Buz, we want a million dollars and three-year contracts," Los Angeles Dodger Vice President E.J. (Buzzie) Bavasi was so good-humored, so friendly, one would think they had asked merely to borrow his car for a double date.

But he said no.

For heart's balm, though, he offered the star pitchers "more money than any two players on one team ever received in the history of baseball."

And they said no.

They parted, still friends.

"I am not embarrassed about the money I offered them," Bavasi said Thursday after the friendly parting, "but it was nowhere near what Sandy and Don want."

"And," he added, "I must say they were not impressed. But I was."

Bavasi, embarrassed or no, would not reveal the figures.

Koufax and Drysdale, friendly or no, were conspicuously unavailable for comment after negotiations deadlocked on their demand for $500,000 apiece on a three-year contract.

Bavasi said it will be up to Koufax and Drysdale to make the next move, but that move will probably not be toward the team airplane, which departs Saturday for spring training in Vero Beach, Fla., Bavasi speculated.

"The next move is for them to readjust their thinking, we are so far apart," he said.

5 Standouts Await Run At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The 29th running of the $145,000-guaranteed Santa Anita Handicap Saturday drew a field of 13 contenders in a race that compares favorably with some of the great ones of the past.

There are at least five standout runners ready for the 1¼ mile race, the forerunner of all hundred-grand gallops in the nation.

And since upsets are no rarity in the history of the Santa Anita 'Cap, the talent is here for such an event.

The so-called Big Five, in the order the track's linemaker views the field, are:

Lucky Debonair, 5-2; Hill Rise, 3-1; Bold Bidder, 5-1; Native Diver, 6-1, and Terry's Secret, 6-1.

The longer shots making up the remainder of the cast are Going Abroad, Cupid, Getaway Night, Quita Dude, George Royal, Tom Cat, Prairie Schooner and Siempre.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, gunning for his fifth Santa Anita 'Cap triumph, elected to ride Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Lucky Debonair in preference to John R. Gaines' Bold Bidder.

He said he had promised the stable the ride when the meeting opened, provided the colt, who won the Kentucky and Santa Anita derbies last year, was in good condition.

The Shoe determined Lucky Debonair was indeed in good shape after a recent whirl around the Arcadia oval.

The El Peco Ranch's Hill Rise, with Manuel Ycaza due for the ride, similarly indicated he was in running form when he won the San Antonio Handicap two weeks ago.

Montour Grid Boss Accepts At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Robert W. Phillips, one of Pennsylvania's most successful high school football coaches, joins the Penn State coaching staff March 1.

Phillips, whose teams at Montour High School in Allegheny County have won 92 of their 108 games in the past 12 years, was picked Thursday to serve as offensive end coach for the Nittany Lions.

The selection of Phillips rounded out the staff of assistants who will work with new head coach Joe Paterno, who last week was named to succeed the retiring Rip Engle.

Paterno said he was retaining seven assistant coaches who worked under Engle.

Since 1954, Phillips coached Montour to a record of 92 victories, 12 losses and 4 ties. His teams were unbeaten and untied in 1957, 1958, 1962 and 1964. He had an unbeaten but once tied season last year.

Phillips' 1957 and 1958 teams won the Class B WPIAL title and after reclassification, his 1963 and 1964 teams won the Class A WPIAL title.

Phillip, now 40, received his high school education in his home community of Montour, formerly Robinson Twp., graduated from Slippery Rock State College and earned a master's degree in education from Pitt.

He coached at Sewickley and Rochester before moving to Montour.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Shortstop Andre Rodgers signed his 1966 contract today with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rodgers inked his pact one day after the Pirates started spring training.

Trial Is Set Monday

Texas Court Says Braves Should Remain In Atlanta

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A federal judge has signed a temporary injunction ordering the National League Braves to play their home games in Atlanta.

The action Thursday by Judge James Noel was another round in the complex legal fight over the team's move from Milwaukee. A hearing on a permanent injunction was set for March 21.

Judge Noel ordered the nine other clubs in the league to play the 1966 schedule as planned, including the 81-game Atlanta schedule.

Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the league will go on trial next Monday as scheduled.

A U.S. circuit court in Wisconsin refused to take part in the dispute last November and turned it back to the state. Later a Fulton County, Ga., court ordered the Braves to play in Atlanta and a judge in Wisconsin ordered the team to prepare to play in Milwaukee.

The temporary injunction was granted after Judge Noel studied the positions of Wisconsin and Milwaukee as presented in petitions and documents involved in the Wisconsin and Georgia cases. One observer said that without this background Noel could have granted only a temporary restraining order.

The dispute was taken to the Houston Federal Court by Atlanta and Fulton County Recreation Authority. It asked Noel to enjoin the other nine clubs from complying with the order that the Braves continue to play in Milwaukee.

The petition alleged Wisconsin is trying to force the Braves to stay in Milwaukee, force the National League into placing another team there, or force the Braves into bankruptcy so they can be purchased by Wisconsin interests.

Milwaukee has been the home of the team since 1953. However, club officials contend the team lost $3.6 million in the last three seasons.

The National League approved the move to Atlanta in 1964.

The Fulton County Recreation Authority built an $18-million stadium at Atlanta after signing a 25-year contract with the Braves.

Judge Noel, in remarks from the bench, said a schedule change now would cause irreparable harm to the Recreation Authority and all National League clubs.

He said extensive commitments already have been made on broadcasting, transportation and other matters.

Clay Confers With Illinois Group To Determine Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, undefeated in 22 professional fights, today faced the biggest foe in his controversial career — public opinion.

Clay was to appear before the Illinois State Athletic Commission which must decide whether his recent anti-draft outburst should cancel his title bout with Ernie Terrell here March 29.

The session was set for 1 p.m. EST.

The three-member commission was ordered by Gov. Otto Kerner to reconsider its Feb. 8 approval of the bout in view of the 23-year-old Clay's reaction last Friday when his Louisville, Ky., draft board reclassified him 1-A from 1-Y.

Clay offered to make a formal apology to the commission and the public generally for "big mouthing" such remarks that the Viet Nam war was none of his affair because he is a Black Muslim and that he has more value as a civilian taxpayer than a soldier.

His offer to apologize came prior to the draft board's announcement Monday that Clay would not be included in the March draft call, technically clearing the way for the March 29 fight.

Last weekend Kerner said Clay's remarks were "unpatriotic" and "disgusting." Other political leaders voiced the same opinion.

The three-man commission held a preliminary meeting on the subject Monday.

Most of the criticism leveled at Clay came before a telephone call to the commission Monday from his Miami, Fla., training camp when the Louisville Lip informally apologized for his outburst.

While in Chicago, Clay also will attend a convention of the Black Muslims, a sect to which he is known as Muhammad Ali. The Muslims figure to share in the fight proceeds, which may gross several million dollars.

Two of the five officers of Main Bout, Inc., which will direct a closed-circuit TV showing of the bout, are Black Muslim representatives. Main Bout also has signed a $100,000 contract with the British Broadcasting Co. for TV showing rights.

Presumably, the commission's decision would hinge on how penitent Clay would be in presentation of his formal apology.

The action Thursday by Judge James Noel was another round in the complex legal fight over the team's move from Milwaukee. A hearing on a permanent injunction was set for March 21.

Judge Noel ordered the nine other clubs in the league to play the 1966 schedule as planned, including the 81-game Atlanta schedule.

Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the league will go on trial next Monday as scheduled.

A U.S. circuit court in Wisconsin refused to take part in the dispute last November and turned it back to the state. Later a Fulton County, Ga., court ordered the Braves to play in Atlanta and a judge in Wisconsin ordered the team to prepare to play in Milwaukee.

The temporary injunction was granted after Judge Noel studied the positions of Wisconsin and Milwaukee as presented in petitions and documents involved in the Wisconsin and Georgia cases. One observer said that without this background Noel could have granted only a temporary restraining order.

The dispute was taken to the Houston Federal Court by Atlanta and Fulton County Recreation Authority. It asked Noel to enjoin the other nine clubs from complying with the order that the Braves continue to play in Milwaukee.

The petition alleged Wisconsin is trying to force the Braves to stay in Milwaukee, force the National League into placing another team there, or force the Braves into bankruptcy so they can be purchased by Wisconsin interests.

Milwaukee has been the home of the team since 1953. However, club officials contend the team lost $3.6 million in the last three seasons.

The National League approved the move to Atlanta in 1964.

The Fulton County Recreation Authority built an $18-million stadium at Atlanta after signing a 25-year contract with the Braves.

Judge Noel, in remarks from the bench, said a schedule change now would cause irreparable harm to the Recreation Authority and all National League clubs.

He said extensive commitments already have been made on broadcasting, transportation and other matters.

Clay Confers With Illinois Group To Determine Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, undefeated in 22 professional fights, today faced the biggest foe in his controversial career — public opinion.

Clay was to appear before the Illinois State Athletic Commission which must decide whether his recent anti-draft outburst should cancel his title bout with Ernie Terrell here March 29.

The session was set for 1 p.m. EST.

The three-member commission was ordered by Gov. Otto Kerner to reconsider its Feb. 8 approval of the bout in view of the 23-year-old Clay's reaction last Friday when his Louisville, Ky., draft board reclassified him 1-A from 1-Y.

Clay offered to make a formal apology to the commission and the public generally for "big mouthing" such remarks that the Viet Nam war was none of his affair because he is a Black Muslim and that he has more value as a civilian taxpayer than a soldier.

His offer to apologize came prior to the draft board's announcement Monday that Clay would not be included in the March draft call, technically clearing the way for the March 29 fight.

Last weekend Kerner said Clay's remarks were "unpatriotic" and "disgusting." Other political leaders voiced the same opinion.

The three-man commission held a preliminary meeting on the subject Monday.

Most of the criticism leveled at Clay came before a telephone call to the commission Monday from his Miami, Fla., training camp when the Louisville Lip informally apologized for his outburst.

While in Chicago, Clay also will attend a convention of the Black Muslims, a sect to which he is known as Muhammad Ali. The Muslims figure to share in the fight proceeds, which may gross several million dollars.

Two of the five officers of Main Bout, Inc., which will direct a closed-circuit TV showing of the bout, are Black Muslim representatives. Main Bout also has signed a $100,000 contract with the British Broadcasting Co. for TV showing rights.

Presumably, the commission's decision would hinge on how penitent Clay would be in presentation of his formal apology.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

How To Keep From Growing Old

Nothing is more discussed or more unreliable than actors' ages. There are only a handful of stars like Barbara Stanwyck who'll own up to being more than 45 (she's 58), but speculation runs amok when Zsa Zsa Gabor walks into a room. She'd rather deed you her diamonds than confess her age.

Hal Humphrey

It's not only members of the fair sex who are sensitive about the gaining years, either. Several male stars have been hung up on 36 for five years or more.

-:-

THEN, after they reach 50 or 60 as Frank Sinatra and Cary Grant did ultimately, with no chance to hide it, their press agents unleash campaigns bragging about their great careers and how kind the years have been to them.

A fairly dependable source on such matters used to be the World Almanac, but a recent cursory check of this reference work shows it to be in a confused state where Hollywood is concerned.

I was looking up Dorothy Malone of "Peyton Place" in the 1966 edition which lists her as being born in 1930, Chicago, Ill., but then discovered that the 1964 Almanac had Miss Malone born in 1928 (Jan. 30).

SO SHE is either 36 or 38, unless you'd rather take the word of the Associated Press which put her age at 40 when she was desperately ill in the hospital last year, a very ungallant thing for AP to do, aging a lady when she is sick.

Actor Hugh O'Brian got three years younger between the 1964 and 1966 Almanacs, which had him born in 1925 and 1928. James Arness of "Gunsmoke" lost a couple of years between the 1964 and 1966 editions, and he now is listed at 1923 instead of 1925. This also happened to Shirley ("Hazel") Booth, who went from 1909 to 1907.

Ernie Borgnine got a year younger (now 1918). Vince ("Ben Casey") Edwards aged four years in two. In 1964 he was 32, but this year the Almanac says he's going to be 36.

Bob Hope knocked off a year, going from 1903 to 1904 this time.

The aforementioned Zsa Zsa Gabor got a three-year break (1920-1923) between the two editions, but there are any number of statistic-minded females around Hollywood who insist Zsa Zsa could add another 10 years to that and still be fudging a couple of years.

Other big gainers (that is, they got younger) are Robert Q. Lewis, 41 (three years); Liberace, 45 (one year); Ann Sothern, 53 (three years); Dinah Shore, 45 (three years), and Inger Stevens, who still is 20 years from being born according to the latest Almanac, which has her arriving in 1986 instead of 1936, her birth year in the 1964 edition.

THE EDITOR'S CHAIR at the Almanac must be a real hot seat. Imagine the number of "Dear Sir, You phony bum" letters he receives from irate 35-year-old TV and movie stars whom he inadvertently has aged by another few years.

Obviously his isn't a very permanent job. I notice there was a change of editors between 1964 and 1966.

A few years ago I interviewed the late Marion Davies, who was just past 60 then, according to my trusty World Almanac. I mentioned this in my column and immediately received a telegram from Miss Davies saying that all I had to do was ask her and she happily would have told me she was 50, not 60, and had the birth certificate to prove it. And I am sure she did, because Miss Davies also had influential friends in high places.

IT'S A fascinating business — ages, that is — especially in show business where nobody is allowed to grow older and where Jack Benny has been 39 for the past 33 years.

Europeans think Americans are crazy to place all of this premium on being young and to spend all of the money we do for beauty soaps, youth pills and face lifts.

And those Europeans aren't even aware of the Social Security benefits which will go unclaimed by stars and would-be stars who won't be about to admit it when they reach 65, no matter what the World Almanac for that years says.

I know a middle-aged movie star who was so embarrassed when his kids spotted him with hair and no stomach in an old late, late movie that he told them the fellow they saw was his son from an earlier marriage.

U.S. Viet War Dead 2,205 Since Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reports 2,205 U.S. servicemen have been killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961.

The department said also that 10,725 Americans have been wounded.

The figures were contained in the weekly summary, which showed 97 servicemen killed during the week ended last Monday night and 435 wounded.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Five fire companies answered the call when a fire started in a stove vent and spread to an overhead fan pouring smoke through a Lincoln tavern. Despite the smoke and fire-fighting activity two patrons sat calmly quaffing their beer until a policeman finally asked them to leave.

The estimated population of South Vietnam is 14 million.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

How To Keep From Growing Old

Nothing is more discussed or more unreliable than actors' ages. There are only a handful of stars like Barbara Stanwyck who'll own up to being more than 45 (she's 58), but speculation runs amok when Zsa Zsa Gabor walks into a room. She'd rather deed you her diamonds than confess her age.

Hal Humphrey

It's not only members of the fair sex who are sensitive about the gaining years, either. Several male stars have been hung up on 36 for five years or more.

-:-

THEN, after they reach 50 or 60 as Frank Sinatra and Cary Grant did ultimately, with no chance to hide it, their press agents unleash campaigns bragging about their great careers and how kind the years have been to them.

A fairly dependable source on such matters used to be the World Almanac, but a recent cursory check of this reference work shows it to be in a confused state where Hollywood is concerned.

I was looking up Dorothy Malone of "Peyton Place" in the 1966 edition which lists her as being born in 1930, Chicago, Ill., but then discovered that the 1964 Almanac had Miss Malone born in 1928 (Jan. 30).

SO SHE is either 36 or 38, unless you'd rather take the word of the Associated Press which put her age at 40 when she was desperately ill in the hospital last year, a very ungallant thing for AP to do, aging a lady when she is sick.

Actor Hugh O'Brian got three years younger between the 1964 and 1966 Almanacs, which had him born in 1925 and 1928. James Arness of "Gunsmoke" lost a couple of years between the 1964 and 1966 editions, and he now is listed at 1923 instead of 1925. This also happened to Shirley ("Hazel") Booth, who went from 1909 to 1907.

Ernie Borgnine got a year younger (now 1918), Vince ("Ben Casey") Edwards aged four years in two. In 1964 he was 32, but this year the Almanac says he's going to be 36.

-:-

Bob Hope knocked off a year, going from 1903 to 1904 this time.

The aforementioned Zsa Zsa Gabor got a three-year break (1920-1923) between the two editions, but there are any number of statistic-minded females around Hollywood who insist Zsa Zsa could add another 10 years to that and still be fudging a couple of years.

Other big gainers (that is, they got younger) are Robert Q. Lewis, 41 (three years); Liberace, 45 (one year); Ann Sothern, 53 (three years); Dinah Shore, 45 (three years), and Inger Stevens, who still is 20 years from being born according to the latest Almanac, which has her arriving in 1986 instead of 1936, her birth year in the 1964 edition.

-:-

THE EDITOR'S CHAIR at the Almanac must be a real hot seat. Imagine the number of "Dear Sir, You phony bum" letters he receives from irate 35-year-old TV and movie stars whom he inadvertently has aged by another few years.

Obviously his isn't a very permanent job. I notice there was a change of editors between 1964 and 1966.

A few years ago I interviewed the late Marion Davies, who was just past 60 then, according to my trusty World Almanac. I mentioned this in my column and immediately received a telegram from Miss Davies saying that all I had to do was ask her and she happily would have told me she was 50, not 60, and had the birth certificate to prove it. And I am sure she did, because Miss Davies also had influential friends in high places.

IT'S A fascinating business—ages, that is — especially in show business where nobody is allowed to grow older and where Jack Benny has been 39 for the past 33 years.

Europeans think Americans are crazy to place all of this premium on being young and to spend all of the money we do for beauty soaps, youth pills and face lifts.

And those Europeans aren't even aware of the Social Security benefits which will go unclaimed by stars and would-be stars who won't be about to admit it when they reach 65, no matter what the World Almanac for that years says.

I know a middle-aged movie star who was so embarrassed when his kids spotted him with hair and no stomach in an old late, late movie that he told them the fellow they saw was his son from an earlier marriage.

U.S. Viet War Dead 2,205 Since Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reports 2,205 U.S. servicemen have been killed in Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961.

The department said also that 10,725 Americans have been wounded.

The figures were contained in the weekly summary, which showed 97 servicemen killed during the week ended last Monday night and 435 wounded.

Real Ability To Relax

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Five fire companies answered the call when a fire started in a stove vent and spread to an overhead fan pouring smoke through a Lincoln tavern. Despite the smoke and fire-fighting activity two patrons sat calmly quaffing their beer until a policeman finally asked them to leave.

The estimated population of South Vietnam is 14 million.

This gracious home has many features found in the most expensive home, yet the cost is well within a growing family's budget. Entrance foyer with guest closet, useful pantry, two baths, separate dining room are added to extra-large rooms in this very comfortable home.

THE SWIFT GORDONEL
3 bedrooms, 2 baths
The trend to separating one living area from another is exemplified in this handsome el-shaped home. Two guest closets in the foyer, two closets in the master bedroom and a convenient pantry are just a few of the examples of the planning for comfort in the Gordonel.

Junior Editors Quiz on DANCING

QUESTION: Have people always danced? How did it start?

ANSWER: Man has danced his way down through his long history. We find pictures of dancers from cave plainting 50,000 years old. We don't know exactly how dancing began, but we do know that dancing is an expression of the delight people feel in expressing rhythm through bodily movement. Rhythm is a kind of graceful back and forth swaying between opposite sides and is connected with our bodily movements. For example, when we walk or run, we advance one foot, then the opposite one. Perhaps dancing began as our artist has suggested, by some stone age family, feeling happy after a fine dinner, jigging back and forth, from one foot to the other, to the accompaniment of hand clapping. Dancing is giving them a way to express their feeling of well being. Later, dancing came to illustrate certain ideas, such as the dance of the Roman warrior, celebrating victory in battle. At the bottom, we show some different kinds of dancing which, although they are all based on the joy of expressing rhythm, use this expression in different ways. First is the exquisite styling of the Siamese, then the lusty action of the Highland Fling, then the pure beauty and grace of classical ballet, and finally, dancing of our own time—but you know all about that.

FOR YOU TO DO: Invite a few friends and give a down-through-the-ages dance party. You could use ideas from our illustration and add others of your own.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: When you buy a set of new canisters, don't throw away the old ones.

They make wonderful shipping cartons, because they are lightweight and much sturdier than cardboard boxes.

I put popped corn around the article in the canister, tape it shut and wrap for mailing.

I've shipped everything in these canisters from expensive perfume to small, breakable items and books.

MRS. J. L. TUCKER.

DEAR HELOISE: When sending out get-well cards, I put a little perfume or colonge on the flowers (most cards have flowers printed on them).

This gives a nice fragrance when the card is opened. It's almost like sending a bouquet--and a card.

MRS. BARBARA MARLOW.

ALL YOU DOLLS: If you use hair rollers to put up your hair—stop, look and listen!

I've often heard that necessity is the mother of invention, and I agree.

You know those pointed, plastic picks we stick through the rollers?

Well, even if we have a teen-age daughter in the house (as I have), we can never find enough of them —I'm lucky if I can find the rollers!

I couldn't find enough picks today, and even was out of toothpicks and big hairpins (which some women have suggested using).

As a last resort, I picked up a rubber-tipped bobby pin, and pushed it through a roller. I didn't have to open the bobby pin or even spring it. Leave it s-h-u-t and push it through. This is especially good on rollers with a brush inside.

The bobby pins have just enough give, and the little rubber tips protect your scalp.

Why don't you try them some time when you run out of picks?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: When everyday dishes begin to chip and break and need replacing, I buy plain white ones to fill in where needed.

White dishes go nicely with every color combination.

MRS. THOMAS F. REED.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: Recently, one of your reader suggested using a clean frog to tenderize steak.

I had a hard time catching that frog. Cleaning him was tricky, as every time I rubbed a cleaning pad down his back, he'd jump three feet into the air.

I finally hit him with the steak.

It didn't do the steak any good, but it sure tenderized that frog!

ROY ROSENAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a button stuck on the cut end of adhesive, masking, cellophane, or any other type of sticky tape that comes on a ring.

This saves both tape and my fingernails. You can always see the end because the tiny button is right there!

CHARLOTTE MARSH.

That's what I'd call a smooth solution to a sticky problem!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Most everyone knows that mint jelly goes hand in hand with lamb. To make it deliciously different, try filling the center of canned pear halves (on a bed of lettuce) with the mint jelly. Quite attractive, too.

EILEEN MAYBERRY.

DEAR HELOISE: Another use for your nylon net:

A slightly dampened piece of net will remove the starch from a cool iron. It's the easiest method yet of getting starch off.

Thanks for all your hints and helps.

Awareness First Step To Habit Changes

Life's problems cannot be solved by eating too much food. Realizing this truth, a homemaker writes to ask for help.

Ida Jean Kain

"When upset, I turn to food and eat and eat. A feeling of hopelessness comes over me, and I think, 'Oh, what's the use!' How can I break this obsessive eating habit?"

Congratulations on your perception. You are on the right track in trying to ferret out what is back of your overeating. If you do not look for causes, you are certainly not likely to find them. But when you do look and gain needed insight, you may be amazed at your slimming achievement from then on.

UNDERSTAND that when something upsets the even tenor of your life the old feelings about food are revived and you eat to assuage a sort of uneasiness, to bring a temporary solace, to break the tension and help you to calm down. Turning to food is the most common single response to disappointment and frustration.

The first step is to be just plain aware of how you habitually react. The whole point of being aware is so that you can prevent it from happening automatically. When you are consciously alert to your habit pattern, and see that this reaction doesn't work, you recognize the need to do something else. This is mature thinking.

Curiosity is a wonderful quality. Use this to ferret out under what circumstances you feel goaded into snatching at food. One homemaker found it was around the first of the month when the bills came in.

Another got upset when the family was late for dinner. A mother found she would "clean out the refrigerator" when her teen-age daughter did not get home at the hour she had promised. Many homemakers report that when they are alone and shut in with their troubles they feel a gnawing urge to eat. This can happen to anybody. Everyone needs outside stimulation and activities with others to keep going happily.

ENLIGHTENMENT into the cause isn't enough. Action is needed. It won't do much good to try to exert will power not to turn to food for comfort at such times. Tackle the source of the trouble. Ask for cooperation from the family.

For example, a telephone call from the daughter when she found she was going to be late could avert anxiety on your part and keep you serene.

When you understand what kind of effort is effective, and take positive steps, then hope is renewed. With a new perspective the urge to overeat diminishes.

11 Dairymen From County Wait Honors

Eleven from Columbiana County will be among 342 Ohio dairymen to be honored during the 20th annual meeting of the Central Ohio Breeding Association in Columbus March 5.

They are James A. Rhodes Jr., Lowell W. Baker and J. Harold McCullough of Salem, Russell Cook of Leetonia, William T. McKarns of Kensington, Ray Sanor and Melvin Smith of Homeworth, Glenn Saviers of East Palestine and Marion and Olan Sanor and Leo Davis of East Rochester.

The program will be held in Plumb Hall at Ohio State University.

It will highlight COBA's joining with three other cooperative bull studs to form an organization to be known as Select Sires. This action means that COBA members will have available to them bulls housed in the Kentucky, northern and southern Illinois studs, as well as those at COBA.

Do-It-Yourself Plan

LORDSBURG, N. M. (AP) — A do-it-yourself construction plan by ranchers in the Red Rock area north of Lordsburg resulted in 15 of its 17 families receiving telephone service. Residents did $5,000 worth of work to lay $36,000 in telephone company equipment the 25 miles from Lordsburg, in southwestern New Mexico, for the hookup.

Marvelous, Confusing

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Electronics can be marvelous, and confusing. Roseanne Hefner of Wichita was playing an electric organ when she started hearing voices. Turned out the organ's speaker was picking up a two-way citizen's band radio conversation.
